President Signs Measure to Extend Benefit Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) The government reported today that a record two-thirds of all the major industrial areas in the nation are now experiencing substantial unemployment.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said 25 more such areas have been added to the list of labor markets in which 6 per cent of the local work force is without jobs.

The additions include such large centers as Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, San Francisco-Oakland, Seattle, Syracuse, New Orleans, Miami and Dayton.

At the same time the Labor Department's latest survey of job conditions in 150 major industrial areas showed that employers expect a hiring pickup from now to mid-May. The rise was forecast to be largely seasonal but to produce gains somewhat larger than in the corresponding months of the 1958 recession.

Job Gains Indicated
This was the one bright spot in the otherwise gloomy spring outlook. Employers in 9 out of 10 of the areas expect at least some job gains between March and May.

Shortly before the breakdown was released President Kennedy signed into law the first of his anti-recession measures to get through congress—a program that will begin channeling $1 billion extra unemployment compensation aid to jobless workers in two weeks.

The new law provides for additional payments up to one-half the duration of original benefits for those who exhaust their unemployment compensation in the two years beginning last July 1. The maximum extension will be 13 weeks, since the longest basic program in any of the states provides for 26 weeks.

U.S. Advances Funds
The government will advance the money to the states and get it back through a four-tenths of 1 per cent increase in the tax on employers—which finances the program.

Goldberg reported that of the 150 major industrial areas the number experiencing 6 per cent or more unemployment—regarded by the government as "substantial"—grew from 76 in January to 101 in March.

This is the highest such total on record. The peak in the 1958 recession was 89 areas so classified.

Other major areas newly rated as having substantial unemployment include Fresno, San Jose and Stockton, Calif.; New Haven, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla.; Rockford, Ill.; Wichita, Kan.; Kalamazoo, Lansing and Saginaw, Mich.; Manchester, N. H.; Tulsa, Okla.; and Kenosha and Racine, Wis.

Papers Insist On Truth in Advertising, Too

"Seeing is believing"... may be an axiom adaptable to newspaper advertising, (1) because newspaper readers have come to rely on the integrity of advertising in the newspaper and (2) because the majority of advertisers would have it no other way.

Every year, newspapers reject many dollars worth of advertising because it does not meet the standards of "truthfulness and good taste" prescribed by the newspapers. This is just another reason why customers who "shop" the ads appearing daily in the Appleton Post-Crescent actually prefer to have advertising in the newspaper over any other medium.

When you read this evening's ads in the Post-Crescent and the weekly tabloid, "Country Life," you can be assured this newspaper has not only come everything possible to preserve its standing as a truthful source of news information, but also as a means of disseminating truthful messages through advertising.

$5 Billion Deficit During Next 2 Years Forecast by President

President Kennedy pointed to a map of Laos at Thursday's news conference to illustrate how pro-

Communist rebels have gained ground in the country in the last seven months.

Kennedy Hopes Khrushchev Will Halt Communist Intervention in Laos

U. S. Military Bases Getting Ready for Possible Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy looked hopefully to Soviet Premier Khrushchev today to call a halt to the Soviet-backed rebel offensive in Laos and avert mounting danger of a U. S.-Soviet military showdown in Southeast Asia.

But behind-the-scenes preparations were reported continuing here, and at far-flung U. S. military bases for greater intervention on the side of the pro Western Laotian government if hopes for a negotiated settlement collapse in the next few days.

The United States has obligations under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) to deal with aggression in Laos, Kennedy told a news conference Thursday night, "and no one should doubt our resolution on this point."

Expects Support
Kennedy expressed confidence that the country would back his decisions, made in concert with the SEATO allies to act if necessary. He declared "every American will want his country to honor its obligations to the free world and ourselves may be achieved."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is flying to Bangkok, Thailand, today for a crucial meeting of SEATO foreign ministers at which allied plans for forceful action are expected to be developed.

Kennedy declared a three-point U.S. policy on the Laotian crisis, giving Khrushchev a plain but softly spoken warning that Soviet-backed military attacks "must end if peace is to be achieved in Southeast Asia."

Using huge, colored maps of the little jungle kingdom, the President

Russia Promises To Study British Proposal for Laos

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet government has promised "serious and urgent" consideration of British officials' proposals for peace in Laos, a foreign office spokesman said today.

At the same time, Lord Home, to honor its obligations to the foreign secretary, expressed hope that the Russians would reply quickly. "For clearly this is an urgent matter," he declined to say how long Britain is willing to wait.

British officials warmly welcomed President Kennedy's call for a peaceful settlement in Laos, which also supported Britain's proposals for a prompt end to the fighting in the Asian kingdom.

Missile Sent Up With Dummy Man

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Redstone missile carrying a dummy man in space capsule was launched successfully today in a test of the rocket's readiness to hurl aloft a human astronaut.

The success could help clear the way for an American to take a brief suborbital rocket ride into space within six weeks. However, the manned launching must await at least one more test firing of a capsule from Wallops Island, Va.

Wiley Hails India's Tremendous Part During Laos Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., said today India is playing "a tremendous part" in negotiations on the Laos crisis, and added:

"She (India) probably is sending troops to Laos. I don't know, I hope so."

Wiley, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made this comment during a committee hearing. A flurry of excitement was created among the newsmen who understood him to be saying "we'll probably be sending troops into Laos" and so quoted him in news dispatches.

But Wiley told them after the session they had misunderstood him, and a check with the official stenographic reporter of the committee proceedings sustained Wiley.

The official reporter had taken a reference to India followed by "she probably" in reference to that nation. Instead of "we'll probably" as some newsmen understood the remark.

Minimum Pay Compromise Nearing Vote

Concessions Made To Opposition on Coverage Provisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic leadership steered a patched-up minimum wage bill toward a vote today in a sharply divided House.

The compromise measure retains the two-step raise from $1-an-hour to $1.25 requested by President Kennedy but makes major concessions to the opposition in the field of new coverage.

It was put together Thursday in a dramatic last-minute huddle in the office of Speaker Sam Rayburn while the debate raged on the House floor.

Strong Opposition
Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and White House aide Lawrence O'Brien took part in the hastily called conference with Rayburn, Rep. Adam C. Powell, D.N.Y., chairman of the House Labor Committee, and Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., floor leader for the bill.

Also present was Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., who apparently holds the key to success of the compromise effort.

Southern Democrats and Republicans have lined up almost solidly against the administration's original bill. If Vinson supports the compromise the leadership hopes enough Southerners will follow him to put it over.

Refuses to Comment
Vinson left the conference in Rayburn's office early and refused to disclose his stand. He asked for a copy of the compromise for further study.

Vinson earlier had agreed to another compromise plan in the furious backstage maneuvering that has marked the course of the minimum wage bill through the House. That would have kept the 25-cent wage increase but cut new coverage to 14 million persons under an entirely different approach.

The new compromise also alters the approach to extended coverage suggested by the administration, requiring that any retail and service concerns covered must depend for at least 25 per cent of their annual business on interstate commerce.

Historic French Building Burned

PARIS (AP) — A flash fire started by an apparently accidental explosion today badly damaged rooms in the historic Palais Bourbon, the sprawling French national assembly building on the left bank of the Seine.

Firemen and police said their preliminary investigation indicated the explosion in the assembly restaurant was touched off by a gas leak and an electrical short circuit or a careless smoker.

Kennedy's Special Message Calls Eisenhower's Budget Estimates 'Too Optimistic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy broke the bad budget news to Congress today—two years of red ink financing for an apparent combined deficit of $5 billion, sending the national debt to new records.

In a special budget message, Kennedy discarded as "over-optimistic" the January estimates of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who forecast a slim $80 million surplus this year and a $1.5 billion surplus in fiscal 1962, starting July 1.

There is no surplus in the inherited Eisenhower budget for 1961, Kennedy advised Congress. It is "over $2 billion" out of balance, he said. The actual estimate is $2.2 billion. It means the debt limit must be raised again, the President said.

The surplus heralded for fiscal 1962 has become a $1.8 billion deficit on the civilian side alone, Kennedy announced. He said the Eisenhower administration, which never admitted there was a recession, based its revenue estimate on "a much rosier economy."

Record Debt Seen
Officials said Kennedy's military program, plus revised estimates of the cost of defense programs, will send the total 1962 deficit beyond $3 billion, swell the public debt by mid-1962 to a record of about $290 billion. Nowhere in this message was there the slightest indication of a possible temporary tax cut to combat the business slump.

As Eisenhower had done, Kennedy turned to Page 15, Col. 1.

Peel Denies Any Part in Murders

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Joseph A. Peel Jr., denied from the witness stand in circuit court today that he had any part in the Chillingworth murders.

The 37-year-old defendant, neatly dressed in a charcoal suit, blue shirt and tie, answered in a loud, clear voice: "No, sir, I did not." When defense attorney Carlton Welch asked him if he induced Floyd Holzapfel and Bobby Lincoln to kill Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth.

He gave the same answer when he was asked if he ever was connected with Holzapfel and Lincoln in gambling rackets at West Palm Beach.

South Vietnamese Call in Reserves

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese defense department today ordered its enlisted reserves into active service starting April 16, indicating the seriousness of the growing Viet Cong Communist terrorist activities.

Reserve officers and noncoms were called back in December. Officials said the need for replacements in the 130,000-man armed forces is increasing. Figures on government losses are hard to obtain, but informed sources estimate 50 or more soldiers or civilians and 300 to 400 Viet Cong are killed every month.

Denies Bailiffs Mishandled Jury

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Prosecutor Robert E. Richardson denies defense claims that court bailiffs mishandled the jury that convicted Chester (Rocky) Weger of murdering a woman in Starved Rock State Park.

The La Salle County state's attorney said Thursday he questioned the bailiffs, Charles McConnell and Mrs. Ray Eutsey, wife of the county sheriff. He said he is satisfied they made no pointed suggestions and applied no pressure on the jurors.

John A. McNamara, Weger's lawyer, has asked for a retrial of the former park lodge dishwasher, who was sentenced to life imprisonment at the trial's close March 3. Supporting his motion for a new trial came a three-page affidavit from a juror, Harry Hermann, 42, Ottawa.

Post-Crescent Artist's Sketch

In another week the fashion scene in the Fox Cities will change from one of drab winter colors to bright and fresh springtime hues. Sailors, cloches and turbans are in the millinery picture for spring, 1961. Ready to start the season in full swing is a baby doll style of light blue chiffon featuring a back effect of two large fabric flowers of the same blue. Delicate green leaves and stems add a colorful accent.

Next is a pert and petite natural straw sailor with white tucked chiffon banding coming to a little girl bow in back.

Another version of the same hat is the high sailor of Milan straw which fits squarely on the head. A wide, dull satin black ribbon, with a side detail of black grosgrain ribbon, encircles it. Black chantilly lace fits snugly over the crown and is tucked in by the ribbon.

Large cabbage roses in graduating shades of pink and green with stems pointing upward decorate this colorful hat for spring. A wide, dull green grosgrain ribbon comes to a bow in back. The very flexible net frame is styled to fit any head.

Light turquoise blue silk chiffon covers another style and presents a tailored look for the new season. A gently tucked chiffon band of the same color eases into the large red rose in back.

Fine white rayon linen is the base for the high pillbox encircled by shiny black berries and leaves. A black veil, gathered at the top, ends just below the eyes.

Farm Exports Sixth of Total, Professors Tell Homemakers

Seventy per cent of our agricultural exports in 1960 were for dollars," Raymond J. Penn, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin, told Outagamie County Homemakers from Appleton, Dale and Little Chute centers Thursday.

The other 30 per cent were made through some kind of United States government assistance. In listing the types of assistance, he described the government selling products for foreign currency in banks. This year the government earned about $3 billion that way.

A commodity is transferred to that country and paid for with that country's currency which is put into the bank there. The money must be used in that country. Mr. Penn related that Tuesday President Kennedy had asked for a $2 billion increase in that type of assistance.

Other Areas

Other exports in the 30 per cent range include the commodities given to CARE which are listed as exports. The products given to countries as an outright gift in time of emergencies, the items traded in the barter program and the products sold to regular exporters for less than the U.S. market. This situation arises when the world market is below our market.

Miss Louise Young, home economics professor at the University of Wisconsin, explained some of the causes for the gold and dollar situation, enumerating the concern shown over the unfavorable balance of payments between the U.S. and other foreign countries over the past few years.

Balance of Payments

The country's balance of payments takes into consideration the country's total receipts from all of its various sources, not only governmental but also private transactions. We get our receipts from other countries by exports and imports, the former being greater.

We also receive money for service, tourist trade, military sales, shipping transactions, certain U.S. firms doing work for other countries, foreign long term investments and repayments for loans.

In 1960 we received $28 billion from other countries.

The United States pays out $13 billion for imports plus money for foreign travel, military expenditures overseas, U.S. investments and government aid, such as CARE.

Total payments to other countries has exceeded receipts, Miss Young pointed out.

No Dollars

"For a long time we have been trying to figure out ways an adequate base for the world's currencies," Penn emphasized.

Ways to keep gold in the country include exporting more items, stimulating the tourist trade and reducing non-essential costs of troops abroad.

Our major exports are machinery, chemicals, food, autos and parts, aircraft and fats and oils. Major imports are petroleum, ores, coffee, paper, textiles and automobiles and parts.

Balance of trade refers to the balance of what we get in exports to the amount we project in importing.

Agriculture exports amount to $4.8 billion annually. Grains, feeds, cotton, animal products and vegetable oils top the list. Farm products imported amount to $4.1 billion and are things we can't produce.

Head Lkt

Countries taking most of our farm exports are the United Kingdom, Canada, Japan, the Netherlands, West Germany and India. Exports up last year were steel, cotton, aircraft, cars, copper and aluminum. Imports up included transistor radios, textiles, rubber, leather goods and photographic equipment. The imports down were cars, wool and grains. Coffee and sugar were also down.

The two instructors also discussed the increased cotton subsidy and the effect it has on the country. Foreign mills are buying it cheaper than our mills, producing the finished product cheaper, and sending it back to the United States for sale at a cheaper price.

Union leaders and textile manufacturers naturally are against this and are trying to put down restrictions. "The implications and complications are great here," Penn remarked. "If the foreign mills can't sell, they therefore cannot buy anything and here we are back in 1920 again."

Don't Try To Play Too Safe

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The safest way to play a suit is not always the best play for the hand as a whole. Don't be penny wise and pound foolish in situations of this kind.

When West opens the six of spades you can make sure of a spade trick by playing low from the dummy. East must play the queen to shut out the jack, and then dummy's king will force out the ace. Your jack will command the third round of the suit. The danger in playing dummy's king of spades at the first trick is that East may have the ace. If so he will capture the king and will then lead through South's jack. If West has the spade trick.

If the hand depends on making just one spade trick you must obviously play low from dummy at the first trick. This is not the case in today's hand.

Need All Clubs

You need all the clubs to make the club suit is to fine se through East as often as possible. Since two finessees may well be needed you must put up dummy's king of spades at the first trick.

When this was your lead a club and finesse the queen. Return a low heart to dummy's queen and take another club finesse. Now cash the ace of clubs run the the contract. The best chance for rest of the clubs and take the top hearts to make sure of nine tricks.

Compare this with the safe play of the spades. If you play dummy's low spade East wins with the queen and returns a spade to the ace. West leads a third spade to force out the jack. You cash dummy's king only once for a club finesse. Now East gets a trick with the king of clubs, and West can get the ace of diamonds and the rest of the spades to defeat the contract.

Insects Live in Overflow

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

INSECTS AROUND SINK DRAIN

Q Three years ago we finished an apartment upstairs in our house using only new lumber. Last fall our tenant told us she found some ants near the drain in the kitchen sink. Can't understand this because there are no ants nor have we ever found any in our apartment or in the cement cellar.

Our tenant claims she used a drain cleaner yet still sees ants in the sink. I have never seen any of them although she tells us about these ants and is telling other people about them. How can this condition be corrected if it does exist?

A I suggest you ask your tenant to save you some specimen insects for identification. If the condition does exist these may be tiny fruit flies which when they appear in numbers are usually around a sink for they breed in the overflow.

To get rid of these cover the overflow opening fill the sink with hot water containing a few drops of washing soda. With this the paper causing the water to go down with a push carry and away insects inside.

If the insects are really ants suggest sending 10 cents (no stamps) to Superintendent of Documents Washington 25 D.C. for copy of "Ants in Home and Garden How to Control Them" (No. A-17728).

CRACKED CONCRETE SLAB

Q We put a garage slab in about two years ago no garage yet. The slab has cracked straight through four inches of cement in the shape of a cross. Could we put reinforcement in somehow and pour more cement on top or just tear the cement out?

A The cracking may be due to have poured too large an area without expansion joints to take up expansion and contracting. No larger than approximately a 10 foot square area should be poured in a single section. Or soft places under the slab may not have been properly filled and packed. These basic faults require re-laying of the garage slab.

A moistureproof barrier should be put down to cover the earth before pouring the concrete for a drier garage. Thick layers of building paper or sheets of polyethylene plastic can be used. Instead of taking up present slab you can cover it with the plastic sheeting and pour new concrete over it. Remember the expansion joints!

Your Problems

Seeks Advice on Cigar Smoker Who Makes Office Staff Ill

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS Does a girl have the right to tell a man who sits in front of her in a large office that his stinking cigar makes her sick to her stomach?

Landers

Several of us would appreciate your frank opinion on this matter. The man also clicks his dentures but we know it's a nervous habit and he does it unconsciously, so we hum while we work and it does help to drown out the sound of the castanets.

The cigar, however, is just too much — especially since he lights up the first thing in the morning when some of us are still navigating on one cup of coffee. Please advise us — Clothespin Crew.

Dear Crew: A girl does have the right to tell a man that his stinking cigar is making her ill. The air in an office belongs to everyone. No one person has the right to pollute it.

Not all cigars have an unpleasant odor and a mutually satisfactory solution could be a change of brand. Tell the guy his cigars are offensive and suggest he do something about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live in a suburb where it is extremely difficult to get good sitters. My husband's business requires that we go out at least two evenings a week.

A certain sitter (I will call her Suzy) is very dependable and our children love her. She is out steady for Saturday night and she usually saves Friday for us, too.

The last few Saturday nights when we have come home, my husband swears he has seen a boy running out the back door. Last night he said there was no question about it. He got a good look at the fellow.

I hate to lose Suzy as a sitter, but I don't want the responsibility of whatever might happen here. My husband says it's none of our business. I told Suzy from the beginning that she was not to have company in our absence and she said she wouldn't dream of such a thing. What should we do? — The B's

Dear B's: Tell Suzy she cannot sit for you again and why. If you close your eyes to the girl's behavior you are in a sense condoning it, and therefore in part responsible for anything that may happen.

DEAR ANN LANDERS To the guy who signed himself Socrates' Uncle and wondered what women do all day besides filing their fingernails and talking on the telephone. I found out when my wife had to go to the hospital for two weeks.

I cooked three unbalanced meals a day, did the washing, and a perfectly lousy job of ironing. I cleaned the house and shipped three kids off to school. I tried to bake a few simple things and had to throw everything out.

I'll never know how women manage dental appointments, drive the kids to Scout and Brownie meetings, dancing lessons, and what-have-you. And when do they find time for mending, polishing silver, tidying drawers and closets, and still enjoy a cup of coffee with neighbors?

Socrates' Uncle said women are modern day witches. Well they may be at that, because it takes magic to do everything the average housewife does in a single day. I never appreciated my wife until I tried to pinch-hit for her. — Monkey's Uncle

Confidential to all who wrote to tell me I was wrong when I advised Mrs. Ambrose Kloppenkaup that even though she was divorced from Ambrose (and he had remarried) she could still use his name: THE ADVICE STANDS. Legally she is within her rights. Socially she's a rotten egg.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Major Skin Problem

Allergies have become a major skin problem. And few are more difficult to cope with.

In the first place, the symptoms take a wide variety of forms, from cracked lips, through rashes to hives. Secondly, the causes are as various as the symptoms. It may be a food, a cosmetic, contact with an animal or even some substance in the air.

To complicate matters, science has not discovered why any person has an allergy to any one thing. Some medications relieve the symptoms, but the only "cure" yet known is avoiding the culprit. The discovery usually involves the ed and in the medical province that produces a reaction. As the trouble-maker differs with individuals, sometimes, however, the culprit is the same.

Friday, March 24, 1961 Appleton Post-Crescent A

is easily pinpointed. Cosmetics are a good example. You can test any cosmetic of allergenic response simply by dabbing a small circle on the neck below the ear and letting it remain for twenty-four hours. Then wash it off and watch the spot for several days. If no untoward signs develop, the cosmetic is safe for you to use.

Otherwise try another brand. Formulas differ and you may not be sensitive to all of them. But what if you are allergic to all the regular types of makeup? Then switch to the hypo-allergenic products. It is a rare skin that cannot tolerate them. Their ability to enhance is of the highest caliber.

Today's Etiquette

TEEN AGE MARRIAGES

Several 16-year-old friends of my daughter's who are not yet out of high school have married recently. There have been rounds of showers and big church weddings to which we received invitations. This has meant purchasing gifts. Don't you think it is poor taste for the parents to have such lavish weddings? All of these young people are living with one or the other set of parents and some are returning to finish school. My daughter says it is their business, but I say that it becomes my business because the parents of these very young brides know that the invitation lists involve the young people whose parents must provide the money for gifts. I can't afford to give my daughter a large enough allowance to cover these obligations. It seems to me that when parents go in for all the social functions concerning their children's weddings that they are condoning teenage marriages.

Louise Davis Answers:
I am certain that no intelligent parent condones teen age marriages. They know that these young people lack the necessary maturity. And you can be sure that they suffer with fears that their children are too young to leave the nest. Based on hope that this marriage can be a happy one, many go ahead with wed-

Our Children

Picture Book First Step in Reading

BY ANGELO PATRI

The first step in learning to read is by way of the picture book and I do not mean a comic. The good picture book for a child is no hit and miss affair. It is one that has been carefully thought out by someone who knows what this age child needs: good paper, not flimsy gray, not shiny and slick, good white paper. Clear, rather large type, no blurring. And little of it. The picture is the thing. It should be something the child is familiar with: dog, cat, horse, sky, water, grass and tree, and the main word (i.e., dog) printed under it in bold type. That's the beginner's book.

Imaginative World

The second book deals with the imaginative world of childhood, the poetry of childhood, and it is an essential in the process of learning to read and like it. All the pictures are of top quality. These must be clearcut representations, not modernistic Children are old style. They come that way, you know, and it is best to meet them where they are, not trying to meet them where they are not, and will not be for years to come.

Pictures that are confused by too many lines, by too many confirmed reader began his reading, by poor color, are no benefit to the child beginning to see mother with him on her lap. It is books. What we are trying to do is a wonderful combination, that when we give a young child his book and that mother, one that first books is to induce him to will live with the child as long love them, to turn to them for as he lives amusement and recreation, to develop good taste for reading and seeing.

We are hoping to start the foundation for a lifetime of enjoyment, interest, and culture. That is why the children's picture books must be good ones, the sort that last and become the basis of his personal library.

Pride in Library

Children will, if they have the least encouragement, take pride and pleasure in their library, delight in seeing it grow book by book on the shelf set aside for their own. Birthday and holiday gifts can include a good book and in this way the number soon mounts.

My choice of a "first" for beginning is a fine, sturdy, well-illustrated edition of Mother Goose. Nobody, to my mind, has yet produced its equal. Many a confirmed reader began his reading with that book, held by his mother with him on her lap. It is a wonderful combination, that when we give a young child his book and that mother, one that first books is to induce him to will live with the child as long love them, to turn to them for as he lives

Actress Elizabeth Taylor posed in London Clinic Thursday in the first picture taken since she was stricken with double pneumonia.

Miss Taylor Plans Return To America

LONDON (AP) — A stiffness has developed in Elizabeth Taylor's left leg, but her doctors say it's not serious. "No particular importance should be attached to this," a spokesman for the beautiful film star's studio said today. "Her doctors are confident that it's no long term problem and that it will go away with exercise and massage."

The leg ailment was believed to be the result of the massive doses of antibiotics pumped into her to combat her acute pneumonia early this month.

"Elizabeth is looking lovelier than ever this morning," said a friend of the actress. "She's had a splendid night."

"She's greatly looking forward to Monday morning when she will leave her hospital and fly back to America."

"She is feeling very well," said the studio spokesman, "but it should not be forgotten that she was very sick and there is still the occasional pain."

When she was first stricken, surgeons inserted a tube through her neck to enable her to breathe. When she returns to California, minor plastic surgery may be done to erase the scar.

"She is breathing and speaking normally," said the studio man. "Her voice is clear and firm."

Miss Taylor, her friends say, is determined to make the movie "Cleopatra", which brought her to London last fall.

No decision has been announced on where "Cleopatra" will be filmed — other than that it won't be in England. Speculation is that Miss Taylor may start filming in August.

$5 Billion Deficit Seen in Next 2 Years

body asked a $943 million postal rate increase to eliminate the Post Office deficit.

The President's defense program is due to reach Congress next week. Today's $900-million message dealt only with civilian matters. Many paragraphs were devoted to documenting Kennedy's pledge—made in his State of the Union message—that his program would not unbalance the budget "of and by themselves."

Lower Revenue

"It is my determined purpose to be a prudent steward of the public funds—to obtain a dollar's worth of results for every dollar we spend," the President said.

His 1962 budget is precisely balanced at $32.2 billion of income and outgo, Kennedy said, if the Eisenhower estimate of defense spending and tax collections is accepted. But a "more realistic" judgment of the impact of the business slump reduces receipts to $31.4 billion, he added.

The 1962 fiscal figures in brief: outgo, $32.2 billion; income, $31.4 billion. The totals compared with Eisenhower's proposed $30.9 billion of outlays and proposed $32.3 billion of revenues.

But the totals didn't mean much with the military proposals still to be heard.

Defense Needs First

Administration men explained the two-part budget message in this way: Kennedy wanted to show Congress and the country that his civilian programs were not budget-busters, that he has real respect for prudent budgeting. But defense needs get overriding priority, and national security programs won't be cut to fit budget ceilings—as many Democrats claimed was done in the Eisenhower administration.

The biggest increases from Eisenhower's budget asked by Kennedy were these: Agriculture Department, $478 million more; Commerce Department, $48 million, mostly for aid to depressed areas; aid to education $300 million; aid to children of the jobless, $215 million; temporary jobless pay, $440 million; space projects, $85 million.

Details Missing

Today's message was so skimpy on details that newsmen had to draw on other sources—administration aides and Democratic leaders in Congress—to discover many of the fiscal facts which the message itself merely implied.

Two Thousand U. S. Marines left Tokyo, and the U. S. carrier Midway set sail from Hong Kong, as pointed out on this map. Meantime, Red rebels pressed south in Laos, and the U. S. reportedly set up a helicopter base at Udorn, Thailand. The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization met at Bangkok and was said to be ready to put 4,000 anti-Communist troops into Laos on short notice.

sued by the military advisers in the alliance's seven-year history.

The communique, issued after three days of secret review of the alliance's military plans, said:

"The military advisers reviewed the present situation in the whole of Southeast Asia, particularly that in Laos and South Viet Nam, studied its implications on military plans for preserving the peace and security of the treaty area."

The top SEATO strategists reviewed the plans which exist for defense of the treaty and directed lines on which further refinement should be carried out," the communique said. It did not elaborate.

Military Maneuvers

The alliance's armed wing expressed satisfaction with improvements noted during recent SEATO military maneuvers carried out while the crisis in Laos was building up to a new danger pitch.

The communique did not go into details on the situation in South Viet Nam, but the pro-Western government there of President Ngo Dinh Diem is hard pressed by mounting attacks in the country side from the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas. Reportedly some 50 government troops and 300 to 400 guerrillas are being killed each month.

The military review with its recommendations will be submitted to the SEATO foreign ministers, who must approve any joint action. All indications are that the other SEATO members—Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines—will wait for the U.S. lead and expect the United States to bear the brunt of any intervention in Laos.

The Philippines' top military man, Lt. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, indicated the alliance's military advisers feel their forces fully prepared for any operations necessary in Laos.

SEATO Communique

SEATO's military advisers, meeting in Bangkok, Thailand, issued a communique charging that communist support of the pathet Lao rebels has created "a dangerous situation" and added:

"This . . . emphasized the need for continued solidarity among the eight (SEATO) nations to safeguard the freedom of the peoples of non-Communist states."

No Soviet Reaction

Except for bare mention by Tass, the Soviet press ignored Kennedy's statements and there was no reaction from Khrushchev, who is back in Moscow after a tour of Siberia and central Asian agricultural areas.

British officials warmly welcomed Kennedy's call for a peaceful settlement.

"Neither Washington nor London considers intervention would settle anything," one official said.

West German officials gave Kennedy's statements a similar welcome, seeing neutrality for Laos a step toward easing the cold war.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan left London by air for a 19-day visit to the United States, Canada and the West Indies.

Macmillan said he has "much to talk about" with Kennedy. But truly neutral Laos will have to consider their response."

3. The United States is "earnestly in favor" of international negotiations "which can help Laos back to the pathway of independent and genuine neutrality." Specifically the United States supports British proposals to the Soviet Union for a prompt end of the fighting to be followed by an international conference.

Points to Obligations

As if speaking directly to Khrushchev, the President added on this last point: "We are always conscious of the obligation which rests upon all members of the United Nations to seek peaceful solutions to problems of this sort. We hope that others may be equally aware of this responsibility."

Throughout the statement, with which he opened his news conference, Kennedy stressed his theme of hope and desire for a peaceful outcome of the conflict.

Preparations Begun

He appeared to be dealing with the situation on the theory he endorsed when he took office two months ago: "Talk softly and carry a big stick."

Officials privately conceded afterward that though he did not talk about it directly the "big stick" is a vital part of his policy. It is common knowledge in official quarters that military preparations are under way, as exemplified by the sudden departure of the aircraft carrier Midway Thursday from Hong Kong.

Kennedy declined to say anything about these preparations at his news conference, though he made no effort to deny them.

His purpose in this playing down the action side of his policy appears to be to avoid the appearance of threatening the Soviet Union or seeming to hurl a challenge. He is reported convinced that if Khrushchev gives the word the fighting will stop in Laos.

President Kennedy's statement on seeking a peaceful solution to the Laos crisis has drawn strong bipartisan support from senate leaders.

Praise From Senators

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, senate Democratic leader, said last night "Mr. Kennedy indicated quite clearly (in his news conference statement) that the situation which confronts us and our friends in Laos is extremely delicate, very grave and potentially dangerous. I am sure the American people will support the President in his efforts to reach an honorable settlement of this highly explosive situation."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, senate Republican leader, said Kennedy gave "a good factual explanation of the situation in terms of opposing forces, leadership difficulties and aggression from outside direction." He added:

"I noted that he said there had been progress since 1954 toward stability and independence—which means that the Eisenhower administration had to deal with a problem and that there had to be progress because we started from scratch . . . We'll just have to let things lie until the secretary of state (Dean Rusk) gets back from the SEATO meeting and we see whether a cease-fire can be consummated."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, said "the President has frankly described the situation in Laos. It is grave. It is dangerous. It calls for the utmost steadfastness and courage, which our President is giving to it. The American people support his goal of a settlement by peaceful efforts and negotiations."

aided said despite the urgency of the Laos crisis, Macmillan will adhere to his original schedule, which calls for a visit first to the West Indies and then a meeting with Kennedy April 5-6.

The prime minister boarded his airplane just a few hours after an emergency midnight cabinet meeting on the crisis and Kennedy's statements. It was the second cabinet meeting in seven hours.

Kennedy's roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, delivered a special message from the President on Laos to Indian Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi. Nehru said, "I think it is a helpful message," but gave no details.

Self-Educated Man Offers $25-Million Du Pont Stock Bid

Court Case Pending on GM Stock Sale Leads to Idea of Foundation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A self-educated man who has spent the last 10 years waiting and hoping that a Supreme Court decision will give him an opportunity to make a $25-million bid for the Du Pont Company's 63 million shares of General Motors stock.

Willing B. Foulke, a former Du Pont executive and brother-in-law of E. Paul du Pont, has spent thousands of dollars and countless hours devising a proposal for a television set.

Foulke, 52, an intense but mild-mannered sort, was bitten with the idea of purchasing the Du Pont interest in GM from the want money. His task he set in 1947 when the U.S. Supreme Court decision which could give him the opportunity to buy the Du Pont Company's 63 million shares of General Motors stock.

GM Control Voting The foundation also presented Du Pont with an alternative proposal in which it would issue warrants to Du Pont stockholders which could be turned in for GM stock on the basis of one share for each share of Du Pont held.

The Supreme Court ruled four years ago that Du Pont should not divest itself of its vast GM holdings. In 1949 however the U.S. District Court in Chicago, aiming to carry out the high court's order, said Du Pont could continue to own the stock but had to transfer voting rights to individual Du Pont stockholders other than Du Pont family members.

Government Appeal The nation's highest court presently is considering a government appeal of the District Court's interpretation of the 1957 order. Du Pont seeks to have the lower court's edict upheld. Should the Supreme Court again order Du Pont to get rid of its GM stock, Foulke says he is ready to buy it.

Revenue regulations Foulke says would not apply to the transaction. The foundation he says will engage in charitable scientific and educational purposes. He plans to consider for the health and welfare of mothers and children. Boy and Girl Scout groups, Boy's Clubs, the National Rifle Association's junior training program, the Salvation Army and the Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia.

Brighter Employment Outlooks Reported By Ford, Chrysler Detroit (AP) — Ford and Chrysler moved but bright employment outlooks. Ford said Thursday it will recall about 20,000 hourly workers at 12 plants Monday and will lay off 5,150 at four other plants for one week.

Chrysler said it will close its Imperial assembly plant in Detroit next week but will operate all other assembly plants on full schedules.

American Motors meanwhile reported retail sales of 9,389 Ramblers in the second 10 days of March, compared with 9,103 in the first 10.

Ford will lay off workers at its Los Angeles and St. Paul Assembly plants and its Souders Ohio and Ypsilanti Mich. assembly plants.

Meters on All Fuel Tank trucks and storage tanks at bulk plants now will be checked for accuracy by Paul Tusler, Appleton's inspector of weights and measures. The city's new portable 100-gallon fuel prover was tested and approved by the state Tuesday. The prover cost the city $1,680. Previously, meters at bulk plants could not be checked because the city had a stationary 50-gallon prover in a loft at the city garage. It was hazardous checking tank trucks with the old prover, because fumes collected under the garage roof. Checking the new prover is Tom Wildrick, left field supervisor for the state department of weights and measures and Tusler.

Hog Cholera Serious in State MADISON (AP) — Dr. Robert Hall of the State Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory reported Thursday that hog cholera is becoming a serious problem in Wisconsin.

Dr. Hall said that there have been 20 reported outbreaks of the disease in the state in the first 21 months of this year, one more than in all of 1960.

Dr. Hall said that the outbreak is not an epidemic but we do not like the trend. He added that preventive vaccination is the only way to stop it.

Wisconsin Share of Military Building Unchanged by House WASHINGTON (AP) — The Wisconsin allocation of $2,101,000 was left unchanged by the Military Construction Authorization Bill passed by the House Thursday.

The Defense Department allocation to Wisconsin included in the bill was broken down as follows:

Gen. Mitchell Field, Milwaukee $923,000. Part of the money is to be used for construction to provide for shifting the Wisconsin Air National Guard from its present location to a new site near Milwaukee.

Trux Field, Madison $300,000 for operations and maintenance of facilities.

Vol. Field at Camp Williams $536,000 for paving ramp and parking areas.

Army National Guard armories at Baraboo and Fort Atkinson $171,000 each.

The amendment deleted a portion of the bill which would have authorized expenditure of nearly $4 million for construction of facilities at the Massachusetts location to house the division and contractor office. In its place, the approved amendment authorizes expenditure of $10,000 for study of the need for the transfer.

Tonight the entertainment high lights are on the light side. There is NBC's new 'Five Star Jubilee' featuring country style and pop music making its bow and later Along with Mitch on the same network.

Small fry will be particularly interested in NBC's Saturday night special a performance by the Bertram Mills Circus of London with Joe E. Brown hosting Russian Opera.

It will be followed on the network with 'An Omnibus of American Songs' with Edie Adams and Robert Goulet. 'What do you want me to do stay down there?' the excited caller asked.

He got two maps one with arrows going south the other with arrows going north.

Assembly Kills Minimum Pay On Party Lines

Floorleader Calls It Fraud Because Farm Workers Excluded

MADISON (AP)—A $1 per hour minimum wage bill was killed by a 51-42 vote in the Wisconsin Assembly Thursday.

'People on starvation wages need our help,' declared Democratic Floorleader Robert Hasse of Marinette labeled the bill a 'fraud' because farm labor and other groups were excluded.

'Supporters of the measure say farmers can't afford to pay a $1 minimum wage,' Hasse said, 'but they feel store and restaurant owners can pay it.'

The near party line vote came after the Assembly rejected an attempt to add farm workers to the bill.

Certain groups were left out in an attempt to get passage supporters of the bill said. Besides farm workers students part time workers, salesmen and some municipal and county workers were excluded.

Decoy of System William Steger R-Oshkosh denounced the bill as the type of legislation causing the decay of the American economic system.

Democratic supporters of the measure contended that persons making less than $1 per hour could not live on the wage. 'The price of butter is the same for persons making 75 cents an hour as it is for corporation executives,' Molnar said.

An amendment to bring farm workers under the bill was offered by Glen Pommerening R-Wauwatosa.

The amendment brought charges from Democrats that it was only offered in order to kill the bill.

In other action the Assembly killed a proposal to take away from the legislators the 133 non-resident tuition scholarships they now may grant to out of state students at the University of Wisconsin.

Finance Unit May End Study Soon, Draheim Says

MADISON (AP)—The Legislature's Joint Finance Committee probably will finish its state budget deliberations by April 5 or 6—it can keep tight control of the speckmaking the committee chairman said Thursday.

The Legislature waits on us, Sen. William Draheim R-Neenah told the committee members in setting the tentative deadline.

'There can't be much speech making up here. We have to fish or cut bait.'

Draheim reminded the committee that after completing its recommendations of the $343 million 1961-62 budget bill proposed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson it still must act on several state employee pay plans, tax bills and other measures involving finances.

'It behooves us to move fast and with reason,' Draheim said. Committee discussion at the executive session centered on the suggestion that an interim study be made of fees charged by various state agencies.

Several members said they felt all, voluntary admission to mental hospitals, rights of committed persons and the interstate compact on mental health.

Former Union Leader Given $3,000 in Suit

Independent Unit Chief Charged UMW Agent Defamed Him

Jerome I. Hiler 1908 N. Charlotte St. was awarded $3,000 damages by a Circuit Court jury before Judge Andrew W. Parnell Thursday in a suit charging defamation of character and reputation stemming from a labor organizing drive at Appleton Coated Paper Co. last July.

The suit first of its kind in the area stems from the United Mine Workers District 50's drive to organize Appleton Coated Paper Co. workers then represented by Paperworkers Local 16 of the Associated Unions of America an independent national union.

Hiler then Local 16 president charged that Ray McNinch District 50 organizer distributed a circular to Appleton Coated workers making defamatory statements against him. Hiler asked $50,000 for damages.

Circular Charges Hiler said the circular called him a dictator said he was not operating in the best interests of his union, was not up on National Labor Relations Board decisions and was lying.

McNinch denied the charges and filed a counter charge claiming Hiler called him a liar in a speech. McNinch also demanded $50,000 in damages.

The jury deliberated two hours before it made the award. The paperworkers local lost in elections at the firm in August and McNinch became business agent for District 50 UMW. The paperworkers local had represented the workers for 21 years.

Speakers at the institutes include Alan Barth editorial writer for the Washington Post and the act believe it has not kept up with the rapid advancement in treatment and changes in public attitude toward persons with mental handicaps.

The committee will review judicial commitments of the mentally ill, voluntary admission to mental hospitals, rights of committed persons and the interstate compact on mental health.

Prof. Ralph O. Nafziger director of the UW School of Journalism said that editorial advertising and circulation seminars are scheduled.

Cains Convicted of All Four Income Tax Fraud Counts

Judge Awaits Investigation Results Before Sentencing; Cites Failure to Keep Books

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Allan Cain and his wife, Margaret, were convicted here today on four counts of a federal indictment charging them with filing fraudulent income tax returns.

District Judge Luther M. Swygert, Hammond, Ind., who delivered the verdict, withheld sentence pending a pre-sentence investigation. Bond was continued at $1,000.

The prominent Fox River Valley lawyer and his wife face a possible penalty of a $5,000 fine or 10 years in prison or both on each of the four counts. The Cains were charged with underestimating their taxable income by $60,674 on their 1953 to 1956 tax returns thereby evading $19,946 in taxes.

Judge Swygert before announcing the verdict said the ultimate question to be decided concerned intent or willfulness. The very failure to maintain books of accounts is an element to indicate deliberate indifference in evasion, the judge said. He also cited as significant the odd dollars and cents reported as estimated gross income and what he called the "constant underestimation of gross income."

Called Joint Effort
The defense in its final argument attempted to show Mrs. Cain was not a party to the act. She claimed that she performed the clerical act of signing the joint returns. Judge Swygert said that in his opinion this was almost a husband and wife team. She worked in the office for many years and benefited from the income. It was a joint effort all the way, it seems to me.

The judge also said he could come to no other conclusion based on testimony than that Cain was sane and fully competent in the years 1953 to 1956. He also said that Cain was sane and fully competent in the years 1953 and 1956.

In the government's final arguments, Assistant U. S. Attorney Matt Corry said this is the most flagrant violation as far as reporting gross income that I have ever seen. He said he could understand and appreciate error, but he questioned how the Cains could estimate only 22 per cent of their income and then say they believed that was all they earned.

The defense questioned the pre-trial survey on income taxes provided for additional exemptions on the personal income taxes and includes a definite schedule of credits on property taxes. Funds would not be returned to the cities to be used at the whim of the governing bodies.

He indicated that reduction of corporate income tax would be a relatively minor amount—perhaps $3 or $4 million—but was included as an indication the state was attempting to improve the business climate.

He also declared the recommendation was an attempt to seek a balanced approach to the tax problem pointed out there were hundreds of inequities in the state tax program.

Power Company to Add Substation
NEENAH — The Wisconsin Edison Power Co. has obtained a building permit for a $4,000 addition to its sub-station on W. North Water Street. Contractor is P. G. Miron Construction Co. of Appleton.

Minors Fined For Loitering In Tavern
LEE M. Schiedermayer, 19, 1821 N. Division St. and Suzanne J. Walker, 19, 710 E. Franklin St. today in Municipal Court admitted loitering in a tavern. Acting Municipal Court Judge Stanley Staudt fined each $10 and costs. G. Peter Neville, 56, 118 S. Pierce Ave., operator of the tavern, denied charges of selling beer and liquor to the two minors and allowing them to loiter in his tavern. Pierre's at 313 W. College Ave. His trial was adjourned until Tuesday, and he posted $100 bond.

Candidates Must File Expense Statements
Candidates seeking office in the April 4 election must file pre-election expense statements with municipal clerk by 5 p.m. Tuesday. Whether or not the candidates spent anything on their campaigns, they must file the reports, the clerk explains. A second financial statement is due April 11.

Vandals Steal Plaque for Indian Statue

Plate Chisled Off Granite Boulder In High Cliff Park

Vandals have stolen a $250 plaque from a granite boulder in High Cliff Forest Park on which a statue of Red Bird, chief of the Winnebagoes, is supposed to be mounted.

The $10,000 statue is being made in New York. It is a donation from the Banta Publishing Co., Menasha.

Workers from an Appleton construction company found the plaque gone Thursday when they went to drill holes in the boulder for anchor bolts to hold the statue.

The workers notified J. H. Walthering, president of the Banta company. He informed the sheriff departments in Calumet, Oconto, and Winnebago counties.

Weights 25 Pounds
The bronze plaque was mounted Saturday on the polished boulder overlooking Lake Winnebago. The plaque measures 15 by 18 inches and weighs about 25 pounds.

Vandals first tried to pry the plaque off but did not succeed. Next they used hacksaws to cut the heads off bolts that secured the plaque in position, then chisled it off its moorings.

Walthering said the statue is scheduled to arrive at the park in April. Dedication is planned for sometime in May or June.

He said workers have landscaped the area and are building masonry walls around the boulder.

Fox Cities Called Most Complex Unit in State

Planning Vital For Communities, Gordon Bubolz Says

The Fox Cities with its multi-municipal makeup make up one of the most complex political and governmental units in the state, Gordon Bubolz, a member of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, said today.

Bubolz, speaking at a meeting of the advisory committee to the Department of Resource Development at Conway Hotel, said, all communities are striving to make their community best.

He described development of the planning commission in the Fox Cities and its impact in changing the communities from "a Balkanized Valley."

The first basic step toward achieving a coordinated regional effort was to start planning and sit down with the municipality heads, he said. It was difficult at first, he said, because no community trusted the other.

While each municipality has its local needs, he said, its interwoven characteristics with other communities and its rubbing of community elbows places each in the category of being part or parcel of a large city or metropolitan area with the many major needs of a metropolitan community.

Air of Confidence
Today there has grown an atmosphere and relationship of confidence which is so heartening and commendable, he said.

Kenneth L. Schellie, consultant for the Fox Valley commission, traced regional planning for the committee and told what is being done in the Fox Cities.

Bubolz's talk and Schellie's explanation of planning followed the governor's address to the advisory committee and kicked off a series of planning discussions today and Saturday.

Nelson Gets Endorsement For Big Recreation Plan

State Advisory Committee Shows Enthusiasm at Appleton Meeting

Gov. Nelson today received the unanimous endorsement and support of his 10-year $50 million "crash" recreation plan for Wisconsin from his advisory committee to the Department of Resource Development.

Nelson, speaking at the committee's meeting at Conway Hotel, Appleton, appeared before the 15 member body for the first time since he delivered his proposal to the state legislature March 15.

Gordon Bubolz, Appleton plan member of the committee, introduced the resolution saving he felt the program was tremendous.

If this program is passed, it "will put Wisconsin in a status above all other states in its desire to preserve its natural resources," William Froelich, executive of the Wisconsin Resort Association said. We should be turning cartwheels over it, he added.

David Carlew, Department of Resource director, said Froelich's statement meant the resort association would throw its weight behind the program.

Nelson reviewed for the committee the plan as he gave it to the legislature.

New Addition
One new addition made, Nelson said, is a booklet with maps and keys explaining the proposals and how they would be carried out. The book, expected to be published in about two weeks, will

House Moving Project Stalled By Utility Wires

NEENAH — A Neenah house already embroiled in controversy ran into more trouble this morning. The two-story frame dwelling is being moved from Third Street to Edna Avenue.

Movers got as far as Forest Avenue and Commercial Street when utility wires blocked their path. Traffic is being rerouted from Forest Avenue while workmen removed the wires.

The house first became the center of controversy when property owners on Edna Avenue attempted to block a moving permit for the house owned by Roger Kopiske, 606 1/2 Racine St. Menasha. They contended the older home would hurt property values in the 400 block of Edna Avenue.

Report Tells Of Cooperation By 10 Colleges

Science, Language Research Noted by Midwest Association

Cooperative achievements between the 10 members of the Associated Colleges of the Midwest, of which Lawrence is a part, have been summarized in the first annual report.

Principal achievements in the first year of operation have centered in science and languages.

Two research programs, one for faculty and one for students, have been implemented at the Argonne National Laboratory. Three faculty members—a biologist, a chemist and a physicist—are chosen from the 10 colleges and are given 15 months of research time there.

Undergraduates are picked to serve as research assistants at Argonne and to be tutored by participants in the faculty program. Students spend only a semester away from their home campuses.

Test Teaching Methods
The language instruction program has been under the direction of Klaus Mueller, language coordinator who has made his headquarters at Beloit College. Teachers from the 10 institutions are testing different instructional procedures and types of audio and visual aids.

The language branch of the program is supported by a $25,000 grant from the U.S. Steel Foundation, and a research contract with the United States Office of Education calling for payments of $248,798 over three years.

ACM initiated a review of the insurance needs and resources of member colleges and an exploration of the possibilities of cooperative purchase of insurance. A relatively new type of insurance form, applying to non-profit institutions, has benefited member colleges and improved the rates for schools, hospitals and churches in the four states containing ACM members.

A comparative study of libraries was made by Prof. William V. Jackson of the University of Illinois, who suggested methods of cooperation between the member colleges.

Brings Speaker
The ACM brought Garfield Todd, former Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia to visit member colleges early in 1960.

Directors of admissions of the member schools agreed to avoid using financial aid as a means of competing for able students. Except for honor scholarships carried by students of $100, financial aid offered to prospective students will be determined by the procedures of the College Scholarship Service, so differences in scholarship awards should be no greater than the difference in the 15 months of research time there.

Financial support for the Associated Colleges of the Midwest comes from the Ford Foundation, the Lilly Endowment, the United States Steel Foundation, the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, the Johnson Foundation and member colleges.

ACM offices are on Wacker Drive in Chicago, with Dr. Blair Stewart as president.

Today's notification was from Maj. Gen. William F. Cassidy, director of civil works of the Army's engineer headquarters in the Pentagon.

Closing Arguments On in Cain Tax Case

Opinion of Cain's ability to compute special damages. None of the witnesses questioned Cain's intelligence or his ability to compute special damages. Descriptions of Cain ranged from "very able" to "highly intelligent." He was called a "very formidable opponent," "adroit," "resourceful," and "capable of using every technique he can to win cases."

Each witness agreed Cain was capable of handling himself well under courtroom pressure.

The defense said there was no "badge of fraud" in the case. The attorney said that if Cain had intended to defraud the government, the poorest way to do it is to put all his money in the bank and make a record of it available. "I can't conceive of anyone being stupid enough to think that is a way to conceal," the attorney said.

Challenges Doctors
The government, through Corry, called the appearance of medical and psychiatric witnesses at the trial "a fantastic performance."

Corry, in a special memorandum read into the record, challenged the American Psychiatric Association and the equivalent National Psychological and Neurologists Associations to "establish a requirement under their code of ethics that before they testify at a criminal trial, they be required to have read at least one standard text covering legal-psychiatric matters involving criminal cases."

Wants Whole History
Under no circumstances will they testify at a criminal trial unless 1959.

When asked to recall certain history on which to base fees paid him in 1953, Cain said their opinions. This would include that in March (when the returns not only information from the de- were prepared) he had as many defendant and his relatives, but as three plaintiffs' cases lined from objective third party up at one time in Circuit Court sources. The history should not and, therefore, "I wouldn't be only include the defendant's ear- thinking of fees I might have got- tier life history, but certainly all ten six months before."

Didn't Get Bill
Corry suggested the medical witnesses at the trial had made the government said he was be- no effort to get a complete med- hind by check on Dec. 8, 1959. ical history of Cain by interview. This was before the tax indic- ing persons other than Cain him- ment was filed against him, he self and certain medical men who said, "I'd have paid it before then may have examined him, if I'd have gotten a bill," he said.

early 1950s he could not tell right from wrong.

"I disagree with the doctors that I don't know right from wrong," the attorney said. When asked if he was aware of any loss of ability in the courtroom, Cain replied with a firm "No, sir."

Cain said that, over the years, he has been connected with five murder cases, one of which is still pending. "These were not what you would call lucrative cases," he testified. "In fact, I've paid money out of my own pocket in some of these cases and never took tax deductions for it."

The government cited figures which indicated the Cains may have paid as much as $91,000 for building and furnishing their 2-bedroom brick home. "That was a shock to me when those boys (pointing to government attor- neys) came in with those figures," Cain said.

"Cain's Coffin"
The house has figured promi- nently in testimony throughout the trial. It was called "Cain's coffin" by one of the neurologists who said the attorney had a fixation to "die in splendor."

Cain himself testified Thursday he wanted the house built. "I thought something happened," he ad- mitted having a fear of becoming a cancer victim because his father had died of the disease. Cain said he had one cancerous growth removed from his face in 1954 and another removed from his ear in 1959.

When asked to recall certain history on which to base fees paid him in 1953, Cain said their opinions. This would include that in March (when the returns not only information from the de- were prepared) he had as many defendant and his relatives, but as three plaintiffs' cases lined from objective third party up at one time in Circuit Court sources. # Unemployment in Oshkosh Watched

Between 5 and 6 Per Cent Now, Manager of WSES Office Says

OSHKOSH — The city of Oshkosh has between 5 and 6 per cent unemployment, Albert E. Nelson, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service office here, said today

"We are watching the situa- tion closely," he explained "If it appears we near 6 per cent un- employment we will have a spe- cial analysis made"

The 6 per cent figure of unem- ployment allows a community to be certified as a labor surplus area to qualify for special de- fense contracts

Nelson estimated employment in the city at between 15,000 and 16,000 and said the situation has been improving with employment increasing slightly in the last two months and expected to continue upward in the next two months

"Not Worse Off" "We are not worse off and are probably a little better off in gen- eral than the rest of the state," Nelson mentioned The anti- cipated increases in the next two months are in both manufacturing and non-manufacturing

With the beginning of good weather he looked for an in- crease in construction work em- ployment Unemployment compensa- tion claimants have been averaging more than 1,000 each week about double what it was a year ago

His records showed There has been a fluctuation in the number of claimants since while one firm may lay off some for awhile, an- other firm may be calling its laid off workers back to work

The Oshkosh employment office branch also covers Waushara County and Nelson said that with the exception of a temporary lay- off at one firm the local indus- tries at Wautoma have been do- ing fairly well

Many of the residents in that area work out of the area and return to their homes evenings or on weekends Many living there receive unemployment compensa- tion because of layoffs in other parts of the state

Legislators Tour State Institutions To Check Legitimacy Of Budget Requests

MADISON — In an unusual move, legislative financiers today inspected state welfare institutions in person to check the legitimacy of State Department of Public Wel- fare appropriation demands

Members of the sub-committee on public welfare of the legisla- tive joint finance committee to- day toured the state mental hos- pital at Winnebago and the state reformatory at Green Bay and in- spected their superintendents

The committee is led by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek, one of the leaders of the majority Re- publicans on the committee that has been trying to cut back state spending

Accompanied by Director Lorge announced the unprece- dented field trips Thursday night and said the committee would be accompanied by Director Wilbur Schmidt of the welfare depart- ment

He said he wants his committee to get a better perspective of the budget request of the wel- fare department Normally the committee sits in Madison render- ing judgment according to the testimony of officials and others

Occasionally there is a visit to a nearby state facility such as the University of Wisconsin The welfare department is one of the biggest spenders in the state government and homes of the Republican legislative major- ity for budget trimming rest large- ly on the ability of Lorge and his committee to reduce its new ex- penditure proposals

Seeks Increases Schmidt will point out areas where more state funds are need- ed either now or in the next two years He recently won support for some personnel increase and housing facility funds from the state board on government opera- tions

A reformatory matter currently before the latter board is trans- fer of some of its surplus inmate population to a new temporary facility outside the institution

A request to use some bar- racks at Camp McCoy is pending before the U. S. Army but late- ly state officials also have turn- ed toward state owned Camp Wil- liams as the possible answer for this need This could be prepared as a permanently available loca- tion whenever needs for addi- tional facilities arise

Impressed With Camp Reformatory Supt. AKIR M. A. Shaff visited the Camp Williams sit- Wednesday and told the Green Bay Press Gazette, this morning he was very impressed with the facilities

He said some of the facilities there could easily accommodate 75 to 100 of the reformatory in- mates

Serving as a backdrop for dis- cussions at the reformatory to- day was a near record inmate population of 1,061 several hun- dred higher than the rated capa- city of the old institution

State Colleges Begin Plans For Centennial Celebration

With an eye to the centennial of the Wisconsin State College system the Board of Regents of State Colleges recently heard recommendations on how to cele- brate the 100th birthday pre- pared by a centennial committee headed by Dr. Walker Wyman of Wisconsin State College River Falls

Among general recommenda- tions were

1 That the system observe its birthday by state wide activities and programs in 1966-67 and that the term "centennial" be used to designate buildings started in that year

2 That the Board of Regents' presidents and faculties publish their Plan for the Future of the Wisconsin State College System

3 That the board presidents and faculties plan some major ex- periment in education

The committee suggested a cen- tennial lecture series by national leaders in higher education by distinguished alumni and by state college faculty members

The committee also suggested the commissioning of works in the fine arts including drama, poetry and musical compositions

It pointed to the value of exhibits of art painting and sculpture touring the various colleges and the enrichment of the regular con- vocation series

The committee advanced the idea of a three volume work on the nine colleges The first vol- ume would be devoted to chapter histories of each institution the second would discuss the rise of a system of higher education and the final volume would comprise selected lectures given during the centennial year

Establishment of a State Col- lege quarterly also was suggest- ed by the committee

Secrecy Order To Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department a need today to withdraw a controversial order requiring secret some information about a house group investi- gating the foreign aid program

The congressional group a House government operations sub- committee apparently agreed not to insist on testimony that might prejudice investigations by the De- partment of Justice

Committee spokesmen said the settlement was reached at a morn- ing, long closed door conference. They called it a victory for inves- tigators who frequently have clashed with the executive branch under both Republican and Demo- cratic regimes on the extent of Congress' right to obtain informa- tion

Chairman Porter Haidy Jr. D- Va. told newsmen I think I can say we have worked out proce- dures under which the committee can be sure there is no informa- tion pertinent to our inquiries be- ing withheld

JFK Chides Group For Discrimination

Pledges Action to Provide Accommodations for Negroes At Civil War Functions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has pledged action to provide Negroes with equal accommodations when they attend any Civil War Centennial Commission function in the South. Kennedy told his news conference Thursday night that the commission's decision that it cannot require Southern hotel keepers to provide rooms for Negro representatives can't go unchallenged. The President said the Civil War group is an official body of the government, sustained by federal funds and its membership filled in part by federal appointments.

"It is my strong belief that any program of this kind in which the United States is engaged should provide facilities and meeting places which do not discriminate on the ground of race or color," Kennedy said.

He said he is getting in touch with Gen. U. S. Grant III, head of the commission, to see if something cannot be worked out that supports this principle, "because we cannot leave the situation as it is today."

Kennedy gave no hint of what action he might take. But Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said in an interview that short of persuading the centennial group not to hold meetings in the South, he doesn't know what the President can do.

"My judgment is that until the Supreme Court changes the Constitution, any person engaged in business has the right to select his own customers," Ervin said.

The controversy arose when a Negro member of the New Jersey centennial group said she had been denied a room at a Charleston, S.C., hotel for a scheduled meeting of state affiliates April 11-12. The New Jersey unit voted to boycott the session, and the New York and Illinois groups took similar action Thursday.

Kennedy wrote the commission it had an obligation to avoid racial discrimination in its activities. But in an opinion read by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va., chairman of the executive committee, the commission held it had no authority to require hotel keepers to provide rooms for Negroes who attend commission functions.

In a discussion of another aspect of the civil rights problem, Kennedy said he had signed the "strongest federal order that had ever been issued" to make it certain that government contractors and the government itself does not permit racial discrimination in hiring workers.

Expect Talks To Carry on Another Week

Nuclear Test Ban Conference Awaits Soviet Response

GENEVA (AP)—The marathon three-power nuclear test ban talks are expected to carry on another week before the Soviets give any official response to the new Western plan to break the stalemate. Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin so far has showed a distinct coolness to the joint U.S.-British compromise proposals but he said he would hear them out without saying an official word. Tsarapkin was chairman of today's session—the 27th since the negotiations began 2½ years ago.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean has taken the initiative since resumption of the talks Monday after a three-month recess. Each day he discussed in detail another point in the program.

Western sources say it will take Dean at least eight more days to spell out the new Western proposals for a treaty banning testing of nuclear weapons.

Talking with newsmen outside the wood-paneled conference room of the Palace of Nations, Tsarapkin said he detected "a slight advance" in some aspects of the Western proposals. But he asserted that they contained "too many conditions, too many ifs."

The general belief is that the Soviet delegate is waiting for word from Moscow before taking a definite stand, leaving Premier Khrushchev room to maneuver on the Soviet position until the last minute.

"We are now in the position where we have to listen, listen, listen to one American proposal after another," Tsarapkin said, adding he would have "nothing to say" in the conference until the Western proposals are completely unveiled.

Mrs. Bing Crosby, known in film circles as Kathryn Grant, hit the campaign trail before sunrise Thursday for her father, Delbert E. Grandstaff, a candidate for the U. S. Senate. Kathy visited the International Longshoremen's Association, Local 1273, in Houston, Texas, at 5:45 a.m. and talked to Joe Benevides, one of its members.

Secrecy Lid Put on Military Operations Of Pacific Forces

Commander Says U. S. Can Drop 1,500 Paratroopers Into Laos

HONOLULU (AP)—Gen. I. D. White, commander in chief of the Army's Pacific forces said Thursday the United States can drop 1,500 paratroopers into Red-threatened Laos within hours. White made the statement in an interview. A few hours later a lid of secrecy was clamped on military operations. Military spokesmen answered questions with a terse—"We are constantly on a 24-hour alert readiness."

White said the Airborne Battle Group on Okinawa is ready to move out on two hours notice. Ready to Roll

"The rest of the 25th Division, most of it stationed in Hawaii, is ready to roll in 12 hours," he added.

White said there are nearly 400,000 servicemen—Army, Navy and Air Force—on call in the Pacific, with 3,400 planes and 400 ships.

White was interviewed just a few hours before President Kennedy warned Communist forces to stop their aggression in Laos.

Guerrilla Force

If the President should decide on military intervention in the tiny Southeast Asian kingdom, White said, one of the first units sent in would be the guerrilla-trained special forces. Three hundred of these are in constant readiness on Okinawa.

There have been reports of leaves canceled in Hawaii and long convoys of trucks carrying ammunition and other material have been seen headed toward the harbor.

Thursday night some 6,000 Marines left Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station in Hawaii reportedly for maneuvers in California.

James E. Murray Dies in Montana

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Former Democratic U. S. Sen. James E. Murray of Montana slipped into a coma and died at his home yesterday, less than four months after he voluntarily ended a 26-year senate career.

Murray, who would have been 85 May 3, was flown to Butte, the mining city where his long political life began, from Florida Feb. 14. He was taken to the home of his son, U.S. Dist. Judge W. D. Murray, after nine days in a hospital.

Murray had been in poor health for some time.

Last year, Murray first filed for re-election to a fifth six-year term and then withdrew. He was succeeded in the senate this January by former Rep. Lee Metcalf, a Democrat.

Murray had been Montana's senior senator since Burton K. Wheeler retired Jan. 3, 1947.

Aligned with senate liberals, Murray was the second oldest senator in age when he retired and third in years of senate service.

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)—College student Martin Rowland is easily spotted when he drives around town. He uses a 1947 hearse equipped with two couches, a coffee table, typewriter and a radio, as a "study hall" between classes.

THE HEALTH SCIENCE OF THE FUTURE

The science of Chiropractic is ushering in an entirely new era of healing. It completely revolutionizes old laws and theories in respect to health and disease.

Rather than treat the effects of lowered resistance, which predisposes to diseases, Chiropractic deals with the cause and by so doing offsets chronic ailments and prolongs life.

Very little is known about the many forces and energies about us. Even the common commodity electricity has not been clearly defined. We know it only by its manifestations. Chiropractic has definitely established life as an energy or force and it is this life force that the Chiropractor aids in regulating.

Chiropractic is the health science of the future. Investigate and benefit by it now.

Action, Not Study Asked On Workers

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to set up a legislative committee to study Wisconsin's chronic unemployment and lack of industrial expansion was criticized Thursday by a representative of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

"Action is needed instead of just another study," Joseph Balcer told the Assembly Commerce and Manufactures Committee.

"We know what's wrong," Balcer said. "It's the tax structure that is hurting industry in the state."

Assemblyman George Molinaro, D-Kenosha, one of the proposal's eight sponsors, disagreed with Balcer. "We keep having these problems of unemployment and nobody seems to know what the solutions are," Molinaro said.

Membership of the proposed committee would consist of four Assemblymen and three Senators. The group would cooperate in its study with the governor's office and the State Department of Resource Development.

With such a special committee," Molinaro said, "we could find out where the trouble is."

70 Candidates for Johnson's Senate Seat

Texas Has Greatest Number Ever Entered for Race, Problems Posed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A lot of scratch 70 names in the special race to select a senator to succeed Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

It's the greatest number ever entered for one race in the state. The entry fee is $50.

At that, some refused to pay the filing fee and announced as write-in candidates. One of these said he joined the mob to give voters a little more choice. The 71 on the ballot are those who paid their $50.

Except Choice

The voter by law must scratch out the names of all candidates except his choice. A few cities, however, have voting machines. The Texas Election Bureau, the unofficial tabulating agency organized by Texas newspapers and financed now by newspapers, radio, and TV, faces special problems.

The bureau's employees must take by telephone 71 names and votes from each of 254 county correspondents several times during election night April 4.

The citizen with a special cause can pretty well find a champion in the list.

H. P. Holland, for instance, wants to lead an expedition against Cuba, using shrimp boats. Charles Otto Foerster Jr. advocates backing up the nation's currency with titanium, thus, he says, paying off the federal debt in three years.

Installment Plan

Harry Diehl insisted on being listed as Harry (Republican) Diehl and tried to pay his $50 filing fee on the installment plan. "To show I am conservative."

Martha Tredway is a handsome platinum blonde of 40 who is indignant at legal discrimination against women and has pegged her campaign solely to that issue.

Ernest Sams is the first Negro in modern history to run for the Senate in Texas. His is not a racial issue, however he wants the government to license professional farmers and thus stop city men from farming as a hobby.

Fire Razes Merrill Firm

Estimate Loss at $100,000 to Wood Products Company

MERRILL (AP)—Fire that broke out in the middle of the night and burned until after dawn today destroyed the factory section of the main building of the Lincoln Wood Products Co.

The loss was estimated at $100,000 by Fire Chief Arnold G. Russell.

Firemen saved the office and warehouse section of the sprawling plant and a nearby loading shed and dock. The firm employed 48 persons.

Fed By Sawdust

The single-story, frame factory section of the building was burned to the ground. The flames fed on windows under construction and sawdust.

Chief Russell called all of his off-duty firemen in and the 17-man department battled the flames from 1:05 a.m. until about 6:30 a.m. A standby detail remained at the scene to keep watch over smoldering sawdust.

The blaze was discovered by a nightwatchman who smelled smoke. He opened the door of the boiler room and encountered a wall of flame.

Flames were licking through the roof when firemen arrived and continued to spread for some time.

"It really blossomed out," said Fireman Tom Klulawinski.

Cardinal's Stand on Polish Charges Praised

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano Thursday praised the firm stand taken by Stefan Cardinal Wysynski against recent accusation by Poland's Communist leaders.

Osservatore said Poland's government has imposed vexing fiscal burdens against the church, threatened feminine religious institutions with extinction and is suppressing religious education in the schools.

Ethiopian Emperor Hikes Privates' Pay

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie Thursday hiked army privates' pay by 16 Ethiopian dollars a month.

With fringe benefits that makes a soldier's pay about 39 dollars monthly. — $16 U.S. The army was promised a raise after the abortive coup last December while the emperor was on a state visit to Brazil.

Charges Burma Let 50,000 Cross Border

Nationalist Leader Says Reds Mopped Up Chiang's Forces

PINGTUNG, Formosa (AP)—A nationalist Chinese guerrilla leader charged today that the Burmese government let 50,000 Chinese Communist troops cross into North Burma last fall to mop up remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's forces who had taken refuge there.

The charge, strongly denied in the past by Burma, was made by Lee Li-ming, 41, a former colonel in the nationalist army. He was among the first thousand guerrillas and their families flown to Formosa this week in an airlift expected to bring about 5,000 nationalists who fled from the advancing Communists in 1949 and spent nearly 12 years of wild jungle life in the China-Burma border area.

Lee claimed that four Communist divisions — the 39th, 40th, 107th and 109th — crossed into Burma after Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Burmese Premier U Nu signed a border agreement last fall. Lee added that the four divisions are probably still there.

The guerrilla leader claimed the irregulars killed 4,000 or 5,000 of the Reds before Communist human-wave attacks forced them to flee into Laos and Thailand. He claimed the roving 3 bands of irregulars had controlled territory twice the size of Formosa until the Communists crossed the border.

After the border pact was signed, Formosa newspapers claimed it contained a secret clause allowing the Communist troops to enter North Burma to track down the nationalist remnants. The Burmese government denied this and later said its own forces were making the fall and winter drive that drove the irregulars into Thailand and Laos. The Burmese claimed the guerrillas were pillaging and terrorizing villages throughout the area.

The United States put pressure on Chiang's government to get the guerrillas to Formosa after the Burmese government charged a nationalist plane had dropped U.S.-made arms to the irregulars. The charges touched off a mob attack on the U.S. embassy in Rangoon. The Laotian and Thai governments also asked the U.S. government to help get the guerrillas out.

Menasha St. Mary and All Hallows Institute cagers struggle under the backboard for a rebound during an Eastern States Catholic Invitational Tournament opening round game in Newport, R. I., Thursday night.

Tourney Sidelights

McClone Impressed by Gym, Concerned About Heavy Social Schedule

NEWPORT, R. I. — Bergen Catholic of Oradell, N.J., whom Menasha St. Mary was to meet in the consolation round this afternoon, went into the ESCIT with a 16-4 record. It lost its last two games of the regular schedule and then fell to Archbishop Molloy of Jamaica, N.Y. 72-54 in its first game.

Individual records, both single game and tournament, are held by Tom Heinsohn, formerly of the St. Michael High School of Union City, N.J., and now a stalwart for the pro champion Boston Celtics. He tallied 42 points in one game and 84 in three in 1952.

The capacity of Rogers High School gym, where the tournament is being played, is 2500 and it was about half full for the afternoon session.

St. Mary Coach Ralph McClone took one look at the court and drooled when he saw it had 10 baskets.

Additional wires have been received by the team including one from State Sen. William Draheim and the board of directors of the Fox Cities Fovex.

St. Mary is one of four teams in the meet for the first time. The others are St. Peter of Staten Island, N.Y., Archbishop Molloy of Jamaica, N.Y., and Bergen Catholic of Oradell, N.J.

Trenton Catholic was runnerup last year, losing to Archbishop Carroll of Washington, D.C. 62-60. St. Peter Prep of Jersey City took third place. All Hallows was fourth.

Gene McGretick, All Hallows' 6-6 center, was named on the All Catholic team picked up by the New York Post and teammate Richie Murphy was on the second team. De La Salle with 6-14 had the poorest record in the tourney. Because it is from the host city, it is invited annually.

Other records were All Hallows' 16-2, St. Peter of Staten Island, N.Y. 24-2, St. Peter Prep 17-5, Bergen Catholic 16-4, Trenton Catholic 15-5 and St. Mary 19-5.

St. Mary is the first middle west team since 1952 to be invited to the meet. The last was St. Joseph of Sioux Falls, S.D. None of the others ever reached the finals.

McClone brought his team here to play basketball and he is concerned over the numerous social activities. The Thursday noon luncheon and program wasn't over until 2 p.m. and its effects were noticeable for the two teams taking the floor in the first game were lifeless and for the first half just went through the motions. The luncheons include talent shows by each squad plus a noted speaker. Thursday's talk was given by Edward Hunter, foreign correspondent and author.

Bob Reuchl and Tony Rechner will compete for St. Mary in the free throw tourney Saturday afternoon.

Streaking Pirates Keep Rolling, 15-9

20-Hit Attack Overwhelms Phils; Orioles Capture Sixth Straight

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They don't strut or swagger but the fierce pride and enthusiasm that carried the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates to the top last year underscores their imposing 11-3 exhibition record.

Dick Groat, shortstop for the Bucs and the National League batting champion, puts it this way: "We take tremendous pride in the pennant and the World Series. There is every bit as much enthusiasm in camp as there was last year."

His mates are content to do their talking on the playing field where they made Philadelphia victim No. 11 Thursday. Joe Christopher's 4-for-4 performance paced a 20-hit attack that overwhelmed the Phils 15-9.

The Boston Red Sox brought the American League's best record to 8-3 with an 11-7 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, and the streaking Baltimore Orioles won their sixth straight by beating New York 4-3.

In other games, Minnesota edged the Los Angeles Dodgers main squad 5-4, the Dodgers' B team nipped Washington 8-7, the Chicago White Sox defeated Milwaukee 3-2, St. Louis whipped Detroit 6-5, Cincinnati got by Kansas City 4-3 and San Francisco beat the Los Angeles Angels 13-4.

5-Homer Burst

The Pirates won it despite a five-homer outburst—four off ace Vern Law—by the Phils. Jim Cooney connected twice and Bob Maikemus, Johnny Callison and Bob Sadowski once each. Christopher had a pair of singles, a triple and a homer for Pittsburgh. Pumpsie Green's bases-loaded double drove in three runs in the eighth inning as the Red Sox came from behind to overtake the Cubs. Green and Frank Malzone, who hit a two-run homer in the third, each drove in three Boston runs.

Marv Breeding's sixth-inning homer, with Russ Snyder aboard, was the clincher for the Orioles. Skinn Brown, touched for Mickey Mantle's fifth homer, gave up all three Yankee runs.

Sandy Koufax pitched no-hit ball in a seven-inning stint for the Dodgers' main squad. But ninth-inning homers by Earl Bat-

Zephyrs Bow to Top-Rated All Hallows Quint, 74-61

Height of New Yorkers Is Decisive

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY Post-Crescent News Service

NEWPORT, R. I. — Menasha St. Mary gave Eastern fans a sample of Wisconsin basketball here Thursday night, and although the Zephyrs came out second best to No. 1 seeded All Hallows of New York City, the local gentry went away impressed. The final score was 74-61.

The score doesn't quite indicate the trend of the game for the Menashans. Staved with their highly touted foes for better than three periods, they were down by only four points, 51-47, early in the final frame but the rangy All Hallows lads struck for nine straight points and the Menashans weren't able to recover.

Tallest Team

The Zephyrs were up against overwhelming odds. They came the greatest distance they were playing the tallest team in the tournament and the rules and their interpretations differ in some respects.

Eastern officials blow very few fouls on the offensive team, different than the Zephyrs are used to playing. Again failure at the free throw line was costly. St. Mary made only nine of 20 attempts while the victors canned a blazing 24 of 31.

The Zephyrs outshot their opponents from the floor, 26 to 25. Believe it or not, in five of their six defeats this season, they outscored the winners from the floor and the other time both teams had an equal number of fielders.

Not only was All Hallows big but the boys could move and several times, especially in the first half, they beat St. Mary down the floor and dropped in sleeper baskets.

The score was tied four times.

Boston Takes 2-1 Lead in Playoff; Hannum Displeased

BOSTON (AP) — "I'm very disappointed but I'm not discouraged," Syracuse Coach Alex Hannum said after his Nats' 133-110 defeat by the Boston Celtics Thursday night.

"We got beat by the great Celtics," Hannum said. "What else can you say?"

The Celtics victory Thursday night gave them a 2-1 lead in the best of seven Eastern Division National Basketball Association playoff series, switches to Syracuse Saturday afternoon for a nationally televised (NBC) game.

Now we just have to win that one at home and it's reduced to a best of three situation," Hannum said. "The smaller the series the better chance the underdog has of pulling an upset."

The Western Division playoff tied at 1-1 between St. Louis and Los Angeles resumes in Los Angeles tonight. Los Angeles won Leahy 149, England outpunted Cecil Shorts 149, Cleveland Ohio 10.

Gil Frank Honored at Kimberly Banquet

KIMBERLY — Special recognition was paid to Kimberly High School's retiring basketball coach, Gil Frank, at the annual athletic banquet sponsored by the Kimberly Recreation Association Thursday night.

Frank was lauded by school officials and coaching associates for his outstanding success as the Papermakers' head case mentor.

Frank announced his resignation in February and will continue as athletic director in addition to retaining his track coach position.

Given Golf Cart

Frank's 1960-61 basketball team honored him by presenting him with a golf cart for his birthday, which is Saturday.

Guest speaker Art Dymc, Mansfield also praised Frank for his work with young people of the community and said that the reputation that Kimberly High School has gained in athletics is no accident.

Mansfield pointed out that the main things that a university seeks in a boy are desire, proper attitude, normal intelligence and good training habits.

Lands Players

Frank lauded his players for their cooperation on and off the floor and pointed to the seniors who have been with him and made sort of a 'basketball era' at Kimberly. Frank said the seniors went through four years of high school competition with a 66-12 record. The group is the same that went undefeated while in the eighth grade at Holy Name School.

Rav Schwanke represented the KRA. Guests introduced included Ken Vander Velden, former Kimberly High School cager and new community and said that the rep appointed head coach at Clinton High School and Jack Lambers, another former Papermaker now attending Michigan State.

Braves Finally Get Good Pitching, but White Sox Win, 3-2

Pierce, Staley Combine to Beat Burdette, Piche

BRADFENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves finally received pitching, the major league variety, only to run into some of the same caliber. The result was a 3-2 loss to the Chicago White Sox.

A ninth-inning rally fell a run short at nearby Bradenton. Terry Staley, on a question mark day as the Braves suffered their sixth loss in the last seven, was Milwaukee's only pitcher in the sixth exhibition game. Milwaukee's overall mark is 5-7.

Veteran Lew Burdette allowed 10 hits but only three runs in six innings before Ron Piche came on to blank the White Sox in the last two frames.

Chicago tagged Burdette for two runs in the first inning and then was held at bay until the sixth when Al Smith cracked his first homer of the Grapefruit League campaign.

Only 5 Hits

The Braves managed only five hits off southpaw Billy Pierce in the first six innings and then were deprived of a run against reliever Gerry Staley on a question mark day as the Braves suffered their sixth loss in the last seven.

Milwaukee rallied in the ninth when Lee Maye and Roy McMillan singled. Then after two out, Del Crandall and Mel Roach singled for two runs before Hank Aaron fouled out to end the game. Crandall and Roach each had three hits while Maye contributed Maye McMillan and John DeVerit each hit balls which were easy outs in spacious Paine Field where the wall closest to the plate is "70 feet away."

After the interruption in slugfests which had marked recent games, the Braves motored back to Bradenton for a meeting with the St. Louis Cardinals today. Rookie Don Nottelbart was Milwaukee's pitching choice to oppose the Cards. Ron Kline and Bob Gibson.

made by basketball coaches at the semi-annual league meeting here Thursday.

All ten of the players named to the first and second teams are seniors and all were among the top scorers in the conference in the 1960-61 season. The selections were made without regard for position.

Seven of the eight teams in the league were represented on the two teams. Only Kaukauna failed to place a cager on either the first or second squad on the honorable mention list.

Champion Neenah and runnerup Kimberly each placed a man on the first and second team and Shawano had two on the second squad.

The three top scorers in the league were unanimous picks with 14 votes each. The trio — Tom Rooyakkers, Kimberly; Paul Felton, Neenah; and Dick Emerich, New London — finished in that order in scoring.

Fourth-ranked scorer Dave Ristau of Menasha and sixth high point producer, Dick Bennett of Clintonville, rounded out the first team.

On the second team are Lee Otto and Tim McGare of Shawano; Jim Saubv, Neenah; Dave Mitten, Kimberly; and John Boutin, Two Rivers.

Hawks Square Series at 1-1

Defeat Canadiens As Hobbled Mikita Sparkles

MONTREAL (AP) — "This was a big one, one we had to win," exclaimed Coach Rudy Plous after his Chicago Black Hawks defeated the Montreal Canadiens 4-3 Thursday night, squaring their National Hockey League Stanley Cup best-of-seven semifinals at 1-1.

"I'd say the return of Stan Mikita was the big difference," said Plous. "Here's a guy who was all bandaged up, plays in spots, and gets that all important first goal. Stan gave us the necessary lift."

Mikita, a sophomore center, had been a doubtful starter because of a wrenched knee.

The teams now move to Chicago for the third and fourth games of the series Sunday and Tuesday nights.

Buckeyes 14-Point Favorites Tonight

Cincinnati Picked by Six in Other NCAA Semi-Final Tilt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ohio No. 1 national ranking into the State's mighty Buckeyes enter fray. The second semifinal matches for a second straight National Collegiate (NCAA) basketball crown in a game with the Redmen (23-6), capable St. Joseph's (Pa.) Hawks tonight.

The odds — 14 points — point up to their billing. Saturday to success for All-America Jerry Lucas and the defending champion Buckeyes, who carry a 31-game winning streak and their one state.

Cincinnati and Ohio State haven't met in basketball since 1922.

Municipal Auditorium's 10,500-seat arena has been sold out for weeks. The championship game will be televised locally and by a number of stations in the areas from which the finalists come.

St. Joseph's (24-4) which has a 10-game winning streak going could be the sleeper in the final round.

The Hawks did not rank among the leaders nationally in any phase of the statistics, but averaged 80 points per game against 76 for their foes. They have a fine scorer in 6-6 Jack Egan who has a 21.7 average.

Two Sophs — St. Joseph will send two sophomores and three seniors against the all-veteran Buckeyes. The rookies are James Lynam, smallest man in the tournament at 5-8, and 6-foot Bill Hoy. Lynam has averaged 10.7 points a game, Hoy 12.

The Hawks' front line of Egan (6-6), Frank Majewski (6-3) and Vince Kempton (6-8) complements a team average of 6-2 1/2, shortest of the four finalists.

The Cincinnati-Utah game pits the Bearcats' balance and rebounding power against the Utes' sharp shooting, led by Billy (The Hill) McGill, who has a 27.7 average.

Cincinnati has a great rebounding trio in Bob Wiesenbahn (6-4), Paul Hogue (6-9) and Tom Thacker, a high jumping 6-2 sophomore.

Ohio State, with Lucas averaging 24.5 points per game, has a team average of 6-5 for its 26 outings. Utah has averaged 21.1, St. Joseph's 30 and Cincinnati 75. Cincinnati has the best defensive average, however, 60.4, compared to Ohio State's 65.4, Utah's 67.9 and St. Joseph's 73.

Compiles 564 Series, Leads Kitchen Loop

"Skeet" Reichert of Alko Foods, downed a 564 series to lead the latest round of Kitchen Cheaters League bowling at Hahn's. One of her games was a 219.

Brettschneider's (541-231-2) leads the league by 9 1/2 games. Mae Wegerke rattled a 532 for Cigaret Service in the 41 Bowl's American League. One of her longers was a 233. Herb's Food Town (42-33) is ahead by a half game.

The top effort in the Tag-a-Long League at the 41 Bowl was Bernice Grey's 501 for Serv-Us-Bakers. Pierce Auto (47-31) leads by 2 1/2 lines.

Plays Ft. Atkinson; Clintonville AC Drops Opener

GREEN BAY — Hewitt Ma-chines won a 59-51 decision from Reedsville in the Green Bay YMCA tourney Thursday night and will play Fort Atkinson at 10 p.m. tonight.

Dick Rohe paced the winners with 16 markers. Harlan Zietlow added 15 and Gordy Rush 12.

The Clintonville AC had lost to St. Joe of Two Rivers, 66-57, Wednesday night.

Jerry Hopfensperger and Jim Kersten were the big guns for Clintonville. Hoppy played all the way and collected 26 points while Kersten led a second-half AC rally with 13 markers and finished with 16.

Malley Hits 18 — Bill Malley was a bright star in the St. Joe triumph as he chipped in 18 points.

The St. Joe-Clintonville contest produced an oddity seldom seen. The two teams went through the first half without missing a free throw. Hopfensperger cashed seven for seven. Ron Brautl Malley and Paul Meany, Manitowish High School's ace scorer, combined to put down nine consecutive charity tosses. The string was broken on the 19th try in the third quarter.

Two Rivers was ahead all the way although the Clints made several threatening gestures.

Jay Hebert's 66 Leads at Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Last week Billy Casper Jr. returned from a four-week absence to tie for the first-round lead in the St. Petersburg Open with a 63. Thursday Jay Hebert returned to the tour after a two weeks' rest and shot a six-under-par 60 for a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $25,000 Sunshine Open tournament over the Bayshore course.

Hebert was so rested he was sinking shots from traps and off the greens for his eagles and birdies. He was out in a sizzling 31, five-under-par on the 6,632-yard par 36-36-72 layout, and came in in 35.

Fleck Second — Jack Fleck nearly matched the leader. Fleck came in with 34-33-67 to be alone in second place.

Five players, including Arnold Palmer, leading money winner last year who passed up the St. Petersburg tournament, were tied in the 68 bracket. The others were the veteran Julius Boros, George Bayer, Bob Brue and Tom Garritty.

Hanson, Patty Berg, Judy Kimball, Marilyn Smith, Mary Lena Faulk and amateurs Mrs. Ann Sparrow Robertson of Sarasota, Fla., and Tish Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla.

How does the future look in state Catholic basketball?

"Good. This was by far the best state tournament we've ever had. Any one of the eight teams in the field could have won it. All had

The Eastern seaboard this week is getting a look at one of the most colorful and successful high school basketball coaches in the country. Menasha St. Mary's Ralph McClone.

"Mac's" clubs have captured three state Catholic titles and have won or shared eight conference crowns in his 11 seasons at the St. Mary helm. The Zephyrs have finished runnerup in the state tourney on several other occasions.

His 11-year record, through the 1961 state tournament in which his Zephyrs finished second, was 213-53.

Why are you so demonstrative on the bench?

"I feel that if you're going to do something at all, you might as well do it 100 per cent," he asserts. "I try to relay some of my enthusiasm to the kids. Besides, I don't think I could change if I wanted to. If somebody said the building was on fire I'd probably be right on yelling."

What's the key to a successful basketball team?

"Teamwork," McClone, relied. "Other than Ron Dibelius and perhaps the late 'Dooder' Konkol and Paul Zelinski I don't think we've ever had a conference scoring champion. We've had a good group of boys, who have worked hard and sacrificed."

"We've always had good tournament teams. I think that's because I don't work them hard at the beginning of the season."

"The short practices make the boys eager to come back."

Why have you stressed the pressing defense so much?

"I've pressed because we need to have a very big team. This is probably the tallest club I've ever had. Jim Kersten (who later hit 6-4 as a Marquette regular) was only 6-2 when he played here."

"St. Mary is a small school, you know," McClone continued. "This year we have only about 180 boys."

You've platooned your players a lot in the past, why haven't you done it as much this season?

"Well, in previous years we've often had 10 boys of equal ability. Normally, by tournament time, I've had 10-12 fellows I could shuffle in and out of the lineup. This season we've had seven leading players. When we've had that good combination working, and we've had small leads, I've hated to take a chance."

Who are the best college prospects on the current club?

"Jerry Laemmrich. Jim Koerner and Bill Becker are definitely guards. Most of the major schools like Laemmrich. He's a fine competitor, jumps very high and is a good ball-handler."

Koerner has as good a touch as anyone I've ever had. Becker is a husky athlete, and a tremendous baseball prospect.

"He's a catcher and a great hitter."

Tony Rechner and Bob Rueckl also could play college ball.

How many of your boys can "dunk" the ball?

"Rechner is the only starter that can't. Laemmrich, Koerner and Rueckl stuff with both hands. Junior Kerry Young also dunks. And Kerry, at 6-2 1/2, is our biggest player."

How does the future look in state Catholic basketball?

"Good. This was by far the best state tournament we've ever had. Any one of the eight teams in the field could have won it. All had outstanding records. There were no weak sisters."

How about the Fox Valley Catholic Conference's future now that Appleton Xavier and Oakbrook Lourdes are being added?

"Xavier has many kids who are phenomenal prospects. The only problem there is who is going to play."

What are your personal coaching plans?

"I'm definitely giving up football coaching. With my insurance business and coaching I was working about 18 hours a day last fall. You can say I'll definitely be back as basketball coach next season. But, I don't know how long I can keep it up. I have to cut down those hours."

Why the powerful clubs year after year at St. Mary?

"We have a good tradition going for us. Many of our players had older brothers or cousins who played here. We are winners and want to remain so."

What are the strong points of the 1960-61 club?

"Our rebounding improved over last year when we won the state title. Our rebounders — Laemmrich and Koerner — were back and we got additional scoring out of them. Our guards did more scoring the year before."

Appleton-native McClone played football, basketball and baseball at St. Mary and then basketball and football at Marquette University.

Center Valley Sports Group Sets Meeting

Continued discussion of the future of the Center Valley Athletic Association will take place at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Twelve Corners Hall.

Possibility of moving the Association's facilities from the present location to a new site will be considered. The Association recently voted to undertake such a move if the cost is low enough to make it feasible.

Clarence Pennings, of Twelve Corners, has offered to donate land for a diamond. A committee will report Thursday on the possibilities of a fund-raising campaign.

Anyone interested in the future of the association — which has lost its lease on the softball diamond at Center Valley — is invited to attend Thursday's meeting.

Ella Reynebeau Jars 508 at Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — Ella Reynebeau slapped a 508 threesome to lead the way in the latest round of Wednesday Night Women's League kegling here. One of her games was a 196. Anna Diederich hit a 196 and finished with a 509.

Holt Tabs Glen Hobbie as Potential 20-Game Winner

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Glen Hobbie has been tabbed as a potential 20-game winner by Gordie Holt, veteran pitching coach of the Chicago Cubs.

"If we make any runs for him, there is no reason why he couldn't win 20 games handily," says Holt of the husky 24-year-old Cub right-hander who has been a 16-game winner in each of the last two seasons.

"Hobbie's speed-up of his delivery will be an asset," Holt says. "He still takes his time getting set, but when he unloads he does it in a hurry. This, and the work we have done on the pickoff play, should shackle some of those base runners."

Hobbie, with his deliberate motion, last season was victimized a number of times by runners stealing second base in tight ball games and eventually scoring the 20-game winner by Gordie Holt, decisive run.

"He has speed, a fast curve and a slow curve, a slider and a good, straight change of pace," says Holt. "One of his main assets is the ability to change speeds without altering his motion. There is no reason why he shouldn't be one of the best pitchers in the National League."

Unknown Weber Holds Lead in Western Amateur

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Willoway Ron Weber, a golf unknown beyond the collegiate world and his own section of California, maintained his whip hand over par today as a pared-down field entered the third round of the Western Amateur tournament.

The 6-1, 160-pound Weber, a 21-year-old member of the University of Houston's NCAA title team, matched par 71 in Thursday's second round for a 36-hole total of 139.

This was good enough for a two-stroke lead over Dick Crosby, a 23-year-old steel mill worker from East Chicago, Ind., who had a second-round 72 over the 6,500-yard New Orleans Country Club course.

Behind them came hard-luck Carl Lohren of Silver Spring, Md., at 142, Len Dudley Wysong of McKinney, Tex., at 143 and tournament favorites Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., grouped with four others at 144.

Providence, St. Louis Match Differing Styles In NIT Finals Saturday

Holy Cross and Dayton Quintets Are Eliminated

NEW YORK (AP)—Providence, a go-go basketball team, and St. Louis, which cuts 'em off at the pass like the hero of a TV Western, will meet Saturday afternoon in the final of the 24th National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

It should be an interesting contrast of styles. They took opposite routes from nowhere into the last round and they'll be meeting for the third straight year in this oldest of all postseason basketball jamborees.

Providence won the first two—75-72 in two overtime periods in 1959 and 64-53 last year. But that hasn't proved anything about the way they play. The two coaches, and many neutral observers agree on that point.

"It was a typical game for us. We seem to lose our control when we have a late lead," said Providence Coach Joe Mullaney after his Friars blew a seven-point lead in the last two minutes of regulation time then came back to gain a 90-83 overtime decision over scrappy Holy Cross in Thursday night's semifinals.

"We have to make them play our game. That's the only way we win," said Coach John Benington of the deliberate St. Louis Billikens, whose 67-60 victory over Dayton was their highest score in three tournament games.

Many Mistakes
Dayton made plenty of mistakes, forced or otherwise. The Friars kept trying to work the ball under the basket against a defense that clogged up the lane and time after time the Bills stole passes and converted them into scores.

Leading 35-23 at half time, the Billikens had their lead trimmed to four points a couple of times, but they always were in command with a defense that limited Dayton's best shooter, Garry Roggenbuck, to three field goals on 19 shots.

Providence never was far enough ahead to have any feeling of security, though an eight-point margin with less than two minutes to go might look good to another team.

Providence was leading 72-64 less than two minutes before the buzzer. Jack (the Shot) Foley, who rang up 31 points for Holy Cross, connected a couple of times. Tim Shea added a few points and George Blakey hit a field goal to make it 75-75 with seconds to go.

Just as time ran out, Providence's Vinnie Ernst, a skinny 5-8 sophomore who has become the team's "take charge" player, was fouled but missed his free throw. He made up for that error in overtime when he drove in for two quick field goals and gave the Friars a lead that Holy Cross never could overcome.

Your Money's Worth

Many Gifts Now Judged Taxable

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Let's say a corporation decides to continue a deceased employee's pay to his widow for a year or two. The first $5,000 paid to her is exempt from income tax under the law. But should she report any payment over $5,000 as income—on this a gift from her late husband's employer?

Or let's say a firm makes a special payment to a retiring employee in appreciation of his long years of service. Must he pay tax on this or is it a true, nontaxable gift from the firm?

All kinds of Gifts. Every day all over the country, men and women get various types of gratuitous payments from business firms which they regard as tax-free gifts and on which they, therefore, don't pay tax.

For these people the Supreme Court has had news in 1960, for it ruled that, if the payment is made to them by a business firm, this hardly ever can be considered a true, nontaxable gift and, instead, it must be reported as income.

The problem came up before the Supreme Court in the case of a Mr. Duberstein who had turned over a sales lead to a business acquaintance without any requirement that he be paid for it. Because the information proved exceedingly profitable, the business acquaintance voluntarily gave Mr. Duberstein a Cadillac.

No Arrangements. Duberstein treated the car as a true gift on which he need pay no tax. He hadn't arranged in any way to be paid for the lead he furnished to his business acquaintance and the firm had no legal or moral obligation to pay him. Duberstein thus claimed that this fact made the payment a true, nontaxable gift.

But the Supreme Court turned thumbs down on this argument. Its reasoning was that if a firm is motivated by business reasons to make a payment, it is income to the person who receives it, even if the business was not legally or morally bound to pay. A true, nontaxable gift, said the court, would be a payment made from a "detached and disinterested generosity" out of affection, respect, admiration, charity or like impulses. Duberstein wasn't paid for any of these reasons. He was given the Cadillac because he had furnished a profitable customer lead and, this being a strictly business reason, he therefore had to pay income tax on the automobile.

The same texts will be applied to the many other business payments which are made to persons other than employees—a fact which is bad news but which you must recognize is the result of the Supreme Court decision in the Duberstein case.

For instance, a lower court already has used the Supreme Court rule to tax wage continuation payments to the widow of a deceased corporation officer.

When the officer died, the firm voluntarily decided to make the payments to her "in recognition of the services" of her late husband.

Not Really Gift. Said the lower court: the money wasn't really a gift geared to the widow's needs or a gift based on the corporation's "affection" for her, or a gift made out of its "generosity." It was a gift tied to a business-like reason—namely, her husband's past services—and as such it was taxable.

Would the payment have been a tax-free gift if the corporation had simply said it was paying it to her because she needed the money? Maybe. The treasury agent still might have looked behind what the corporation said, though, to see whether this reason or something connected with business was the real factor behind its decision to pay the widow.

Uncertainty On Market

Crisis in Laos Keeps Trading In Cautious Mood

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was cautious today as Laos uncertainty prevailed over the Laos crisis. Trading slowed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 10 at 248.50 with industrials off .30, rails unchanged and utilities unchanged.

Small gains and losses were the rule for most key stocks, only a few going as much as a point either way.

The list was irregular from the start.

Weekend Closes. The imminence of the weekend with the market closed and the possibility of dramatic developments concerning Laos caused traders to even up their commitments.

Drugs, oils and electrical equipment showed a slightly higher tendency. The pattern was mixed for steels, rails, motors, airplanes, nonferrous metals, aircraft-missiles and electronics.

Volume for the first two hours was only 172 million shares compared with 2.08 Thursday and continued the declining trend since Tuesday.

Sterling Drug spurted more than 2, Lionel more than 1 while Zenith and Republic Aviation fell around 2.

Losses of about a point were taken by Goodrich, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville. Revlon lost around 2 points.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .99 at 674.46. Corporate and U.S. governments were mostly steady. Trading was moderate.

CAP Paper Drive. Fox Cities Squadron Cadets of the Civil Air Patrol will hold a must recognize the result of the paper drive in Appleton Saturday, Duberstein case.

For instance, a lower court already has used the Supreme Court rule to tax wage continuation payments to the widow of a deceased corporation officer.

Sharp Quakes Spread Panic In Sicily

MESSINA, Sicily (AP)—A series of earthquakes lasting more than 90 minutes today spread panic and damage in this Sicilian city and its mainland neighbor, Reggio Calabria. No casualties were reported.

Walls cracked and floors buckled, sending thousands fleeing into the streets of Messina. Tiles and stones tumbled down.

Fire wagons clanged through streets jammed with banking automobiles and terrified pedestrians. Firemen were answering calls from persons in damaged buildings.

The chamber of commerce building and two high schools developed big cracks in floors and walls. A cornice crashed down from one building. Office workers ran into the streets.

Mothers rushed to the schools, only to find that teachers already had led the children to the safety of the streets and playgrounds.

Tens of thousands milled in the streets until the shocks subsided. There was no serious damage in Reggio Calabria, but there was panic.

Both cities were wiped out by an earthquake in 1908 that took 75,000 lives.

Communications were partly disrupted, apparently because telephone and telegraph operators had abandoned their posts for the safety of the outdoors.

Laos Keystone of All Southeast Asia

Wedge of Non-Communist Land Abutting Four Free Countries

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Americans it is 6,000 miles from here. As nations go, Laos can barely qualify as one. Most of its people are illiterate and some haven't the foggiest notion of nationalism. So why bother about it? So why should President Kennedy make it plain to the world that the United States would not idly stand by while the Communists overrun the place?

Split Entire Area

As a landlocked nation abutting Red China on its northern border, Laos is like a wedge. If the Communists can drive their wedge deep enough, the entire area is split apart.

Laos touches on four nations which are non-Communist—Cambodia, Burma, Thailand, and South Viet Nam.

A Communist Laos would provide an ideal springboard for any Red attempts to seize these nations and, ultimately, all of Southeast Asia piecemeal.

But the chain of events which the loss of Laos could entail does not stop there. The consequences are far broader—indeed, worldwide.

The fall of Southeast Asia would substantially outflank the subcontinent of India with its 400 million people, opening them to Communist blackmail on the north and east.

Food Surplus Area

For the free world, vital strategic supplies—rubber, tin from Malaya, for example—would be gone.

Southeast Asia as a whole is a food surplus area even though vast sections are uninhabited. Communist control would give Red China room for expansion by its teeming millions and insure a greater food supply.

Much of the rice for other lands comes from here. This would be shut off.

By controlling Southeast Asia, the Communists would be a mere puddle jump from oil-rich Indonesia.

Further, Southeast Asia would sit like another wedge in the island chain which stretches from the Australian continent clear to Japan and which embraces the Philippines.

Endless Conquest

The process of piecemeal conquest could go on endlessly. The process would not necessarily have to be by overt action.

If the Communists could manage to seize only key areas in the chain they would so isolate the other nations that they would fall as victims of their own needs into the Soviet-China bloc.

And so, in the end, the question becomes: At what point does the United States draw a line and say the Communists can go no farther?

Obviously, just from a military standpoint, the matter of line-drawing becomes increasingly difficult as more nations fall, for the points at which the Communists can apply pressure increases.

President's Belief

Clearly President Kennedy believes that a line must be drawn.

Certainly, many military men, including former Army Chief of Staff Maxwell D. Taylor, have long asserted that they do not believe the Communists even contemplate a nuclear war, but think troops along their Laotian border, they can take over the free world bit by bit.

Many military men believe the Communist goal to be eventual if this nation decides the line isolation of the United States in a hostile world.

Now all of this does not mean with a hard choice from which that U.S. line-drawing in Laos there is seemingly no escape if it would be simple. It could be in bloody and long, ending in a stalemate precisely as the war in Korea did.

In the first place, the presence of U.S. troops along the Yalu River separating Manchuria from North Korea was a contributing

Anthropology Professor to Attend Parley

Dr. Chandler W. Rowe, professor of anthropology at Lawrence College, will attend a conference on the superior student in Buck Hills, Pa., Sunday to Wednesday. About 110 persons from various schools will attend the meeting, started by Haverford College.

On April 16 he will conduct an alumni meeting in Washington, D.C., and May 4 to 6 he will be in Columbus, Ohio, for a concurrent meeting of five anthropological societies, the American Association of Physical Anthropologists, the Society for American Archaeology, the American Ethnological Society, the American Folklore Society and the Central States Anthropological Society, of which Rowe is past president.

Also attending the meeting at the Ohio State Historical Society Museum will be Professor Harold Schneider and Lawrence students Janet Anson, Gillett, and Judith Burmeister, Northbrook, Ill.

Neenah Police Seek DePere Man Who Disappeared Monday

NEENAH — Neenah police and Winnebago County authorities have been asked to assist in the search for a DePere man who disappeared Monday.

Lee Nockers, 32, allegedly boarded a train in DePere Monday morning for Neenah. He has not been seen since. Nockers is known to have periods of amnesia.

When last seen, Nockers was wearing a green truck driving uniform. He is about five feet eight inches tall and weighs about 185 pounds.

Factor in the Red Chinese decision to intervene in that war.

There is nothing to indicate the Chinese would be more amenable to the presence of American troops along their Laotian border.

Thus, the possibility of another clash between the United States and Red China is not too remote.

The United States is confronted with a hard choice from which there is seemingly no escape if it is to maintain its leadership in the free world.

President Kennedy, as his statement indicates, fully recognizes the dangers to this nation. He apparently feels that part of his job now is to make his fellow citizens recognize them.

Officers Talk

George Chambers, national fieldman for the American Guernsey Cattle Club, discussed "Why Registered Cattle?" In Iowa, DHIA studies show registered cows registered 45 pounds more fat than grades, he said. Complete identification, valuable pedigree information, more breeder pride and higher sale value for breeding stock are major advantages for registered cattle, he said. Chambers compared the Guernsey cow with other breeds and showed they compare favorably on dollar return per cow and per $100 of feed.

John Lindsey, secretary of the Wisconsin Guernsey Association, discussed changes occurring in dairy farming and listed further advantages for raising Guernsey cattle. He cited solids in fat and protein content as possible additional advantages in the future.

Paying of Bee Tax May Bring Extension Agent

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Are the beekeepers of Wisconsin, who are excused from personal property tax liability on their honey makers and their bee equipment paying the 25 cents a hive in occupational tax into the state treasury?

The legislative finance committee has it on fair authority that they are not. The testimony comes from Milton Lyons, Pardeeville, an officer of the Wisconsin Beekeepers Association.

Encourage Beekeeping
 Lyons' testimony came obliquely during his argument for a state appropriation to permit the employment of a state extension specialist in bees and honey — producing to encourage more beekeeping in the state. It would benefit agriculture as a whole and especially the fruit and vegetable producers who rely on the pollination work of the busy insects.

Apparently realizing that the hard-pressed budget writing committee is keeping a tight rein on additional state expenditures, Lyons volunteered that if the present bee hive tax could be collected as the law intends there would be enough revenue to pay for the extension service, with a surplus left over.

200,000 Hives

He said the state tax records now show about 47,000 tax paying hives that the state department of agriculture guesses there are about 98,000, and that his own estimate, fortified by the opinion of federal government agricultural services put the Wisconsin hive total at nearly 200,000.

Why cannot the local tax assessors report bee hives more accurately for taxing purposes, a legislator wanted to know?

Sen. John Potter, Wood County, thought he had the answer. It is similar to the problem of collecting the dog license fees, he said Safety motto for the club will be "Aim to Live." David Ort, junior safety leader, passed out safety material at the meeting this month.

Betty Polenz gave a talk. The next meeting will be April 5 at Ellington Town hall with Karen and Connie Willencamp in charge.

Plan Field Days

Two farm field days at branch agricultural experiment stations in Wisconsin have been announced at the Spooner station July 13 and at the Ashland station July 27.

If dogs didn't bite and bees didn't sting the assessors might be more diligent he hazarded.

Girls Receive Top Awards For Projects

Holstein Association Lauds 4-H Members From 8 Counties

Eight 4-H Club girls carrying dairying projects with Holstein cattle were recognized by the Fox Valley Holstein Breeders Association Saturday as tops in each of their counties.

Winners were Mary L. Hutchins, Brown; Marjorie Geiser, Calumet; Mary Immel, Fond du Lac; Juanita Anderson, Wau-paca; Mary Jo King, Marinette; Carol Brodhagen, Shawano; Phyllis Krahn, Outagamie, and Jane Bruemmer, Kewaunee.

It was the first year in the last four cattle sales were under $200,000 during 1960, the breeders were told. The drop in receipts was blamed on a poor cattle market in the south at present, a slowdown in loans to southern farmers because of tighter credit and a flood of dairy heifers on markets there.

Cattle Sales

The Fox River Valley sale will be May 20 at Fond du Lac. The association is planning a bigger advertising campaign to interest more out of state buyers.

Brown County fair grounds, De Pere, will be the scene of the 1961 Black and White Show July 17. The state Black and White sale will be July 19 at Mauston.

Brown County also will be host county for the Holstein tour for boys. No date has been set.

Interest Youth

Robert Bird, state president of the American Dairy Association, urged farmers to be thankful they can produce as much food as they do. Some people, he said, consider our production as an economic weight.

Paul Christolph, retiring state association president, urged the association to interest more youths in purebred cattle because calf law.

A record hop is planned April 14 by Mikesville 4-H Club at Clayton School with Tom Miles as disc jockey.

Jim Raehl gave a talk about tornadoes and showed slides. Lunch committee for the next meeting is Cheryl Becker, Mary Ann and Douglas Bahrke.

Alfalfa Fields Should Come Well in Spring

Wisconsin alfalfa fields have a pretty good chance to come through in spite of an unusual winter.

The use of improved winter hardy varieties, ample amounts of lime and fertilizer and better fall management are reasons for alfalfa surviving winter hazards that formerly killed many stands.

Alfalfa and ladino plants have been checked for winter killing in University of Wisconsin greenhouses this year. Both legumes show far less damage than was anticipated. Red clover, though, appears to have suffered more.

If the snow stays away awhile it will prevent rapid freezing and thawing that occurs this time of year. This late in the season there isn't time for prolonged ice sheets.

There's plenty of good certified alfalfa seed this spring selling at a more favorable price to farmers than last year.

WAUPACA — A survey of all farms in the Fox Cities area which produce feed grains is underway as an advance step in connection with proposed feed grain programs now under discussion by the ASC.

To put such a program into operation for 1961 crops in a manner which would be fair to all growers accurate data must be obtained immediately for possible establishment of feed grain base acreages for all farms in the major feed grain producing area. Such information will include the acreage history of corn, grain, sorghum, barley, oats, as well as the acreage devoted to other crops and land uses, for all farms in the area where one or more of these feed grains were produced within the past two years.

In other counties, called the minor feed grain producing area, such data will be obtained for each feed grain producing farm for which a request is made by the owner or operator of the farm.

The survey is being conducted by a farm to farm visit. All farmers have been furnished with a work sheet on which they may record the information needed. When the ASC representative calls the information will then be readily available.

Farmers who supply acreage figures at this time will not be obligated to participate in a feed grain program if one becomes available but will be eligible to participate.

Hearing Set On Order 41

Increase Sought
On Class IV Price
In Chicago Market

Proposals to amend the Federal milk order for the Chicago marketing area will be considered at a public hearing in Chicago April 4, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

A number of proposals will be brought before the hearing on increasing the price for milk used in making butter and hard cheese. Such milk, which is now priced at Class IV, comprised about 42 per cent of all milk priced under the Chicago order last year.

Change Requirements

Evidence will also be presented on changing some of the requirements under which country supply plants qualify as "pool" plants.

After considering all evidence brought out at the hearing the USDA may recommend amendment of the order. Producers and handlers would be given opportunity to file exceptions, and a "final decision" will be issued by USDA. Producers then will be asked to vote on the proposals.

Amending the State Constitution

Wisconsin voters have on numerous occasions shown ability to understand difficult questions put to them on the ballot. Nevertheless the sponsors of some of the proposed amendments to the state constitution are worried about what such voters will do next April 4 when they are faced with a ballot proposing six changes.

It has been suggested that the voters, rather than give the time and attention required to these constitutional questions, may simply vote "No" on the spot and thus decide negatively on all questions.

It is true some may think this the safe way to vote but it certainly would be a pity if all of the amendments were thus disapproved because many of them are of great importance and should be adopted. As a simple rule the Post-Crescent suggests that the people vote "Yes" on all of the six proposed amendments excepting No. 2. On No. 2 the vote should be "No."

No. 2 is a proposal to amend the constitution "to permit the sheriff to serve any number of consecutive terms." The people of Wisconsin have voted this proposal down on numerous occasions and it may be assumed that they are opposed to it now. The reasons for voting "No" on this matter are numerous and apparently have been well understood by the people of Wisconsin in the past. One simple reason is that the sheriff, by virtue of his office and not for any personal reasons whatsoever, is a powerful figure in every county in the state. He is so recognized by all including the most skilled political leaders. The constitution limited the sheriff to two successive terms for a very good reason and that provision should be retained. The Post-Crescent favors the appointment of sheriff under civil service rules. But until that improvement takes place in our laws people will be well advised to limit the sheriff to two terms.

The other five changes should be approved because they may well be needed by the people in the years ahead. The first proposes "the limitation of the indebtedness of school districts entitled to the highest level of state aids shall not exceed 10 per centum of the value of the property as equalized for state purposes." The districts involved are those offering no less than grades 1 to 12. That limit certainly is not too high for ready management. Furthermore, there is a safeguard in the provision that the manner and method of determining such equalization for state purposes is to be provided by the legislature.

The third amendment proposes that the constitution be changed to "grant powers to the legislature to provide for the continuity of civil government in case of enemy action in the form of an attack." As matters stand now there is no means by which successors of public officials could be provided in the event a number of the officials should be killed or incapacitated by an enemy attack. As an example, if the governor and the lieutenant governor both should be incapacitated there would be no means of finding a successor without the cumbersome business of a statewide election. Quite obviously the legislature should be empowered to put men in office in an emergency or to provide in advance some means of having officials ready to man the state offices. Obviously this amendment should be approved.

Amendment No. 4 provides "that the present limitation against granting increased compensation to a public official during his term of office shall not apply to a public officer, other than a member of the legislature, whose term of office is 4 years or more."

This is intended to eliminate a very unfair situation with relation to Wisconsin judges. Supreme court judges, who are elected for 10 years and many other judges throughout the state whose terms are four or six years, may find themselves unfairly compensated long before the end of the terms for which they were elected. As a matter of fact it often happens that a judge with long experience in office may be completing a six or ten year term at a salary much lower than that provided for a beginner. Obviously the people should correct this by adopting the fourth proposed constitutional amendment.

The fifth proposal is of first importance to residents of cities. It proposes to give cities and villages the right to condemn land for public purposes without having "the necessity for condemnation by a city or village established by a jury verdict." This change merely gives cities and villages the right to condemn property for public use on the same basis as now is provided for other municipalities and for public utilities. It simply does not make sense that the government of a city or a village should have less authority in taking over private property at proper compensation for public use than is allotted to public utilities for example. In the immediate future this provision may be of great importance to cities which will be fighting for their lives against the deterioration of downtown property. Milwaukee presently is in difficulty because it is unable to get possession of property which it needs to restore its downtown area. The business of having a jury trial for each little parcel of property required by the city consumes much time and expense both of which well could be expended to better use. All people living in cities and villages would benefit from this change in the constitution.

The final proposal is that relating to the personal property tax. It is proposed that the constitution be changed so that "the taxation of merchants' stock - in - trade, manufacturers' materials and finished products, and livestock need not be uniform with the taxation of real or other personal property."

This is merely to give the government more flexibility in levying taxes. No favoritism will be permitted since all of the items enumerated subject to personal property tax will be taxed on a uniform basis as among themselves but may be on a different basis from real estate. All tax experts in the state, and in fact everyone who has studied the problem, is in full agreement that the personal property tax as administered today is most unfair and should be modified. Support for this amendment will be a big step forward in helping cities to attract industry and provide jobs for the people. No one could afford to vote against this amendment who has the welfare of his community in mind.

It is perhaps unfair that the people should be required to decide all of these important questions on a single ballot but it is necessary that they do so. The Post-Crescent urges again that all of the proposed amendments be supported except No. 2 which relates to the terms for the office of sheriff. That amendment in the opinion of the Post-Crescent should be defeated.

The State in Business

As everybody who ever has been importuned by agents of the life underwriters can testify, the life insurance business is one of the most highly competitive in the land.

Here in Wisconsin there are not only scores of private companies selling life insurance contracts, but the state of Wisconsin which they help to support by their active tax payments also is a competitor. It is in the life insurance business, through the state department of insurance, although the fact may not be widely known. There was a reminder of this implausible enterprise at the statehouse the other day when the manager of the state life insurance business, who is Insurance Commissioner Charles Manson, turned up before a legislative committee to plead for amendments to the law to permit him to expand his market for state life contracts.

Most persons who are acquainted with Mr. Manson might have been surprised, if not disturbed, by his proposal. For he has spent his own professional life in the private insurance business. He more than most persons ought to be aware of the incongruity of the state invading the proper sphere of private business enterprise. We cannot suppress some curiosity about what Mr. Manson would have said had there been a proposal for a state casualty insurance business in the days when he was in the casualty business, before he retired to his political office at Madison.

The commissioner would be rendering a more convincing service if he asked the legislature to permit him to get out of the life insurance sales business altogether, to suspend the issuance of new contracts, and to permit the business to expire with the gradual expiration of the existing contracts.

There is no more defensible reason for state competition with the life insurance underwriters than there is for the state to set up a service for the repair of television sets or the production of millinery. Here is an area of collectivist infection in our body politic that ought to be eradicated, and by no means should be permitted to grow as the new insurance commissioner has so astonishingly proposed.

Folly for State to Delay Changing Its Taxation Plan

From The Clintonville Tribune-Gazette

It is folly for Wisconsin to continue delaying the necessity for a major change in its pattern of taxation. Whether or not it serves the governor's political interests, we cannot neglect paying our bills. Nor can we neglect making those changes which will eliminate the evacuation of Wisconsin industry as we have seen it begin in recent years.

An extension of state income taxes so that those earning more than $10,000 a year will pay the greatest share of new taxes may seem socially considerate and politically smart, but will it stop the men making more than $10,000 from moving their plants elsewhere? The state chamber of commerce, a good many independent business groups and citizens of the state generally are ready to install the nuisance of a state sales tax broad enough to provide the funds needed to finance our increasing obligations. Why delay it? To be sure, Gov. Nelson has his sights set on the U.S. Senate seat now held by Alexander Wiley. To be sure, he is in a good position to ascend to it if there isn't a big change in the political climate. But should we have to earn a bad senator by coddling a bad governor? If a sales tax is the vehicle to financial responsibility and future prosperity, let's get on with the business of enacting one—the governor's personal political future be damned!

Farm Program Inexorably Moves Toward Total Government Control

From The Wall Street Journal

We wonder, sometimes, if Secretary of Agriculture Freeman is going to have as much difficulty getting his farm program put into law as he seems to think he will.

The farmers, we are sure, are not going to like that program. For it envisions a system of direct controls over what the farmer does with his land that can hardly be matched much this side of the Iron Curtain. There will be no more of those loose acreage controls that farmers, with their skill and ingenuity, can outflank. The farmer will get his orders from Washington on what crops to plant, right down to how many seeds he can put in the ground. And there will be no ifs, ands or buts about it.

Nobody Else. Either We are not sure either that the rest of the country will like this program as its full dimensions become clearer. For coupled with this direct control of the farmer there is a plan for Washington to decide on our "nutritional needs"; that is, what we ought to eat and what we ought not to eat, and to use these farm controls to see that our tables are set according to the grand designs of government.

But like it or not, there is an inexorable logic behind Secretary Freeman's thinking. From the premises of long ago the consequences for tomorrow follow with an inevitability that would please any philosopher of Marx' historical imperativeness.

For consider: The nation's farmers have already accepted the idea that it is a duty of Government to provide them with a "fair share" of the national income, the fairness of the share being measured by the Government. They have accepted the idea that to win this they will take their rewards not from the market place but from the public treasury, taxes being levied upon all to pay benefits to farmers.

Get Paid Only In the beginning, more than a generation ago, many farmers thought they could receive the benefits without any regulation or control upon their production. This hope quickly passed, but the controls enacted at first did not seem too onerous, or at least a rather small price to pay for the rewards.

But as by now everyone has discovered, these controls are inadequate to deal with the consequences. The government is guaranteeing the farmers higher prices than they would otherwise receive, and the inevitable consequence of this is that every farmer tries to produce as much as he can. And with advances in technology and the application of more capital to farming, yield-per-acre outstrips all efforts of the government to curtail total production by curtailing acreage.

This has naturally led to all manner of other devices to hold down production while still holding up the farmers' "fair share" of income, the latest of these being the soil bank program. Inevitably, all these have failed too. And so the "farm problem" has grown from a little scandal to a big scandal to an impossibility.

Eating Their Cake An impossibility, that is, so long as the farmers insist upon both eating their cake and having it. So the nation is approaching the time, inexorably, when the farmers will have to pay the true price of all their handouts from the government, that price being the loss of their freedom to run their own farms. The government cannot, and will not, continue indefinitely to pay them artificially high prices and at the same time permit them to produce as much as they want to sell at these prices. It's that simple.

True, the farmers could free themselves from the public trough and so retain their freedom from government dictation. But it will not be easy for men, so long supported and sheltered by a benevolent state, to walk upright again by themselves. And unless they can, they may talk all they please about being free men, but in the end they will come to the kind of serfdom foreshadowed for them by Freeman.

People's Forum She's Sending Books to H. S. In Nevada Editor, Post-Crescent: In reference to W. J. McFadden's letter to you in the March 20th issue of the Post-Crescent, asking what can be done to see that a Nevada high school receives badly needed books for their library; I would like to make a few suggestions which I think could be helpful.

If each person who reads this article would send just one book to this high school, I'm sure that it would be gratefully received by the teacher and his 23 students. How about some of the people who know English teachers in their communities. They could certainly do a good deed by informing these teachers about this school and perhaps by making the suggestion that they ask each of their students to send out a book to this high school.

There are also many organizations in the Fox Cities area and if they could be informed of the plight of the students in this high school, I'm sure that they could also find a way of sending some books to these students who are so eager for more reading material for their library.

I for one am sending them a set of four books on Abraham Lincoln written by Carl Sandburg and as soon as I can I will be sending more books to these students.

Plain Citizens Lack Unanimity of Purpose

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Somebody recently wept copious tears about the perils to the unorganized citizen of the operations of the typical American state legislature.

From the vantage point of the press gallery in the Wisconsin legislature, it is hard to imagine who that "unorganized" body of citizens might be.

Surely it isn't a very large slice of the Wisconsin body politic. From where this chronicler sits, it appears that there is somebody on guard here to represent every conceivable and identifiable interest in contemporary society.

The morticians, the pediatricians and the obstetricians are here, in the person of their agents. The agriculturalist, the florist, the home economist and the apaiser have their hired eyes and ears in the galleries and in the committee rooms. The forester, the financier, the engineer and the teacher have extended retainers to counsel. The architect, the actuary, the plumber are equally wary. The railroad conductor, the truck driver, the banker and the insurance counselor are among the most active in representations to the lawmakers.

FOR INSTANCE

Try to imagine a typical resident of Wisconsin. Suppose he is a craft worker in a paper mill.

Chances are that he is a member of a labor organization, and of a veterans' organization, the Parent-Teachers' Association and a fraternal lodge, that he owns a home and likes hunting and fishing and pays dues to a local sportsmen's club that belongs to a statewide federation of like-minded clubs.

He is represented by special interest lobbies in the legislature half a dozen times over.

Or he may be a businessman, say the proprietor of a retail business. Besides having his lodge, and PTA and veterans' organization representation like his papermill employee neighbor in his town, he is likely to belong to a specialty trade association (the Wisconsin Retail Grocers, the Wisconsin Retail Hardware Merchants, etc. as well as to the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce or one of several related organizations that exist to represent the views of the business community.

The farmer, the manufacturer, the professional man, the capitalist, even the student in college, has organized lobbies representing his views — or what they suppose to be his views — in the lawmaking process. It is possible to imagine some citizens who do not consciously belong to organized pressure groups, the widow living in seclusion, the hermit in his shack, and perhaps a few others. It is not easy to imagine any substantial minority of such unorganized folk.

NARROW LOBBIES

The problem is that the average citizen is not represented by a lobby in his capacity as a citizen — as distinguished from an economic being with plainly selfish concerns.

The farmer fighting the processor, the architect duelling with the engineer, the building and loan executive worrying about the banker, the trade union member resisting the employer, and vice versa, are ably and attentively represented in the political system.

But these are narrow fights. The architect in his capacity as citizen, the merchant in his capacity as citizen, and all the others, have no hirelings at Madison to express their views, for the very good reason that there is no unanimity in their views.

As citizens, these men are on their own, even as is the widow in her cottage, the professor in his laboratory, and the editor in his sanctum.

Perhaps that's the way it should be, in a system that is based on democratic responsibility and holds itself out to be representative.

Girl Who Won't Work Statistic, Too

From The Charleston (W.Va.) Daily Mail

We don't know the girl and hear of her only through the friend of a friend. Here, however, is her story.

She lost her job not long ago — and a pretty good job, too, one which she filled capably. Knowing of an opening in a nearby store, a friend and neighbor called the girl's mother to tell her about it. Would Jeannie be interested?

Well, no, not really. And why not?

As an unemployed worker, Jeannie was drawing $14 a week in unemployment compensation, and since she lived at home this was quite enough to meet her material needs. When it ran out, she would think about looking for another job.

Now we do not cite this case to decry the unquestioned merits of unemployment compensation or even to quarrel with Jeannie's decision to take it easy for a while. Our point is this.

Jeannie is a figure in the unemployment statistics.

To the extent that she is, the use of these statistics as a measure of economic distress is misleading.

Whatever else she may be doing, Jeannie isn't suffering any pain.

4-H Leaders Study Projects

Calumet County To Enforce Limits On Member Activity

FOREST JUNCTION — Flower and house plants, newly added to the list of 4-H projects in Calumet County, were discussed at a bimonthly meeting of Calumet County 4-H Leaders' Council at the Forest Junction Elementary School.

Hilard Brantmeier, Sherwood, council president, who is completing 25 years of 4-H activity was in charge. Motion pictures and slides on the new project were shown by Charles Nikolai, county 4-H club agent. Mrs. Elmer Whitby, Brothertown, who superintends the flower exhibits at the Calumet County Fair, spoke.

Limit Projects

A few club members who have enrolled in the new flower and house plant project this year were admitted to the meeting.

The group will enforce a limit on the number of projects which members in the various age divisions may take in a single year. First year members, ages 10 to 11 years, will be limited to a single project. The 12 to 14 year group will be limited to three projects. Those 15 years and over will be confined to not more than five projects and may hold a junior leadership in addition.

The regular meeting date on the second Tuesday evening of the month, was changed to the third Tuesday evening.

Get Ahead With Plants For Spring

If you want to get a head start with zinnia and marigold plants this spring, try some of the new plastic containers that have the seeds planted in them.

All you have to do is add water to the planters. Look carefully for the varieties you want.

Don't start the plants too early, because they will grow tall and lanky. Be sure to note the directions for handling after germination. The new plants do best in a cool sunny location with a 60 degree temperature during the day time and 50 degrees at night.

Petunias can also be started inside for setting out in late May. They need to be transplanted when the first set of two leaves develop. If the plants are not transplanted they will become spindly and light in color.

You can buy flower seeds and plant in flats that are filled with a light soil mixture and covered with glass.

Don't plant the seeds too deep — not over two or three times the diameter of the seeds. Place the flats in a warm 70 degree location for germination.

Importance of livestock identification will be the topics of John Schmidt and Fred Giesler, extension specialists.

Apple Spray Schedule Made Easier This Year

No Successful Fruit Crop Can be Grown
Without Proper Disease Control

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agent

The 1961 apple spray schedule recommended by the University of Wisconsin is simpler and easier than in previous years. Fruit growers have come to realize it is impossible to raise a crop of apples, raspberries, strawberries and grapes without following an insect and disease spray program. Even with well planned spraying programs, weather conditions sometimes make it impossible to get 100 per cent control.

The 1961 spray program calls for pre-blossom spray of Captan plus Mercury or Dodine for scab and other fungus disease control. Eliminated this year was the dormant spray prior to pre-blossom.

Fruit specialists feel that the fungus spore built up is in such high numbers that a dormant spray does not do much good. The next three sprays are a mixture of Captan and DDT, Captan for fungus and DDT for insects. These sprays should be at the pre-pink, petal fall and first cover. It is a good idea to use in at least one of these three sprays Oxev, Diel drien and TDE. Oxev controls Red Mites and Two Spotted Mites. Diel drien gives protection against Plum Curculio. TDE gets the Red Banded Leaf Roller. The Oxev should be added to the pre-pink spray and possibly again at petal fall. The Diel drien and TDE used at petal fall. The blossom spray which occurs between the pre-pink and petal fall should not contain any DDT, but Captan should be used. The reason for no DDT is because the insecticide would harm the bees which are pollinating the fruit.

Cover Spray

Following the first cover spray, additional cover sprays should be applied every seven to 14 days until harvest. The University of Wisconsin's first choice is a mixture of Sevin and Captan or Dodine. This combination may be used up until one day before harvesting time.

Sevin is not used in the first cover spray because it may give some injury to McIntosh. The second choice is to alternate DDT and Lead Arsenate as the insecticide and mix it with Captan. The Sevin and Captan mixture need be used only every 10 to 14 days, while the DDT or Lead Arsenate Captan mixture every seven days. If the DDT, Lead Arsenate plan is used, spraying can be done only until 30 days before harvest. It would be necessary to switch to something like Sevin because the fruit must be sprayed right up to harvest time.

Other Chemicals

Other chemicals giving good results have been Diazinon in place of Sevin or Guthion, however. Guthion is somewhat toxic and difficult to use. It is necessary to give thorough coverage to the tree. To do this it takes five to seven gallons of water per tree. Growers who have followed this kind of program even through years of severe apple maggot and other disease and insect infestation, have obtained excellent results.

The problem of neglected orchards is the major cause for the severe Apple Maggot problem. All growers who do not plan to spray their trees are encouraged to cut them down. An unsprayed apple tree will not provide any fruit and will cause a serious problem to those growers who wish to do a good job. The Apple Maggot fly is known to travel from one to three miles to infect healthy orchards.

Garden Seeds Exposed to Gamma Rays

EDNA KING MANDEVILLE
Garden Specialist
In line with government policy of promoting the peaceful uses of atomic energy, flower and vegetable seeds are now being irradiated with the gamma rays of Cobalt-60.
This spring for the first time a national seed house company is of fering a wide variety of flower and vegetable seeds for sale in retail stores throughout the country.

Two Changes Possible
The irradiation of seeds may produce two distinct types of changes. One is physiological which means that the normal growth pattern of the plant is temporarily disrupted by the treatment. The result is often twisted or oddly shaped leaves, with short or thicker stems. Some flowers may have misshapen petals and several of them may fuse to form irregular giant blossoms.
Slowly the plant recovers from this physiological disturbance and later formed leaves and flowers will be closer to normal in shape and size.
Such physiological changes do not repeat themselves in the next generation though these transitory effects often produce curious and bizarre effects which are interesting to observe.
The second and more important type of change is genetic. Such changes occur infrequently but when they do they are passed on from generation to generation. They are not necessarily desirable. The new flower may be less beautiful, the new vegetable less delectable. There is no doubt that coming years will see the crest of advanced types will come from advanced types that are an improvement over the old.

Amateur Research
Certainly most of these advances will come from the efforts of trained plant breeders but there is no real reason why a persistent amateur cannot share in the discoveries in our back yard. Irradiated seeds are a means by which we can conduct our own search for a new and improved flower or vegetable. If results are unsatisfactory, they will be interesting to observe.
Atomic irradiated seeds should be planted the same as untreated seeds. It is helpful for the amateur breeder to plant a row of untreated seeds of the same variety as the energized seeds. Thus he will recognize more readily any changes that should become evident. Plant the treated seeds at least 25 ft. away to reduce the possibility of cross pollination.
The flowers in an irradiated garden should not be picked, but the seeds from any that appear different should be saved and planted next year. If possible, cover these different plants with a cloth or plastic sheet to prevent cross pollination. This is only an added precaution and is not absolutely necessary.

Results Indefinite
Don't expect plants from a second planting to look exactly like the original plants. Some will revert to their normal state.
Only those changed genetically will retain the different characteristics, be they desirable or not. If the change is desirable and produces a more attractive flower or Each spring home owners are alarmed to see that paint has peeled from the wood siding or clapboards on their houses.

When good paint peels on siding or clapboard, it can be assumed that moisture is the cause. The best paints cannot be expected to maintain bond with wet wood. Where paint has peeled more than once it is sure that the siding or clapboard has become wet under the paint during the winter. Repainted peeling will take place until the source of moisture has been eliminated.
Other than faulty construction which is not here, there are two recognized sources of moisture. When paint has peeled on the siding or clapboards on all four sides of a house, it indicates that the moisture may be originating within the house.
To prevent this condensation, all pockets should be vented as shown in picture 3. Loosen the siding or clapboard and remove every sixth piece. Then shove one eighth by one inch groove one eighth by one inch strip of hardboard spaced 16 inches on centers between the siding or clapboard and the sheathing. The pieces of siding or clapboard removed must have about an inch cut off along the bottom edge so that a vent see picture 3 can be formed.
While the various pieces of siding and clapboard are being replaced, a series of one inch holes spaced several inches apart around the house at points marked "D" and "N" in picture 1. The holes will vent late the hollow spaces in the wall, thus replace and remove all siding or TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)— Drawings found on rocks in the barren deserts of southern Libya show prehistoric man lived there nearly 7,000 years ago and animals roamed the valleys.

Italian explorers came upon the drawings in an area crossed only occasionally by nomads. They depict animals no longer found in this arid part of North Africa — giraffes, elephants and large antelopes. The people were a tall, sharp featured race. One mural shows men having their hair trained into buns on their foreheads.
Headed by Fabrizio Mori, a young archeologist from Rome, the five-man Italian team was on its way home at the end of its annual visit to the area.
Members reported that they found scores of new and fine drawings on rock shelters and in the caves of the Accacus mountains southeast of Ghat. The rock drawings are believed to date from 5,000 B. C. although many are of more recent — and less skillful — civilizations.
Vary in Size
The drawings are done in an ochre pigment that still can be found in some parts of the Accacus range. They vary in size of ordinary veiling siding or clapboard attached to sheathing (also indicated in picture 1). A small pocket exists back of each piece of siding or clapboard. The sun's warmth even during the winter condenses moisture in all of the pockets. Before winter ends the siding or clapboards become wet and the paint peels.

Questions and Answers
Q. Will insulation in exterior walls prevent the passage of water vapor from the interior to the exterior?
A. No. Water vapor goes through insulation the same as through other materials.
Q. Can aluminum paint be applied over existing paint?
A. Yes. However, enamel paint to the plaster. Then use any gloss.
Q. What size fuses should be used in house electrical circuits?
A. Generally a 15 ampere fuse should not carry more than 1400 watts. If fuses continue to blow, carrying less than that has made the siding or clapboards number of watts a professional electrician should be consulted.

This Economy Cap Cod has the look of a 1½ story home, but is actually a two story, with three bedrooms upstairs. There is a 25-foot living room with a fireplace.

House of the Week

Cape Cod Offers Economy

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

I put the key family living areas adjacent to the long rear terrace. On the inside interest around this planter is increased by a clear glass or translucent screen which along with another planter serves as a divider between family kitchen and living room.

The entire terrace is tied in with the indoors through the windows on the left side, the large sliding glass doors at the center and the projecting glass bay window.

Among its luxuries are a 25-foot living room with fireplace, a modern family kitchen 18 feet long, a separate dining room and a downstairs half bath.

Even with an attached garage at the side, the overall width is only 45 feet. The habitable area on the first floor is 919 sq. ft. with another 652 upstairs. There are three bedrooms and 1½ baths.

Over all dimensions including attached one-car garage are 45 ft. wide by 28 ft. in depth. Living area on the first floor is 919 sq. ft. and another 652 upstairs. There are three bedrooms and 1½ baths.

Architect Herman H. York, who designed B-56 in the House of the Week series, believes that the property surrounding a house is extremely valuable to a home owner and that its utilization is important.

"Because of this," he explains, "I put the key family living areas adjacent to the long rear terrace. On the inside interest around this planter is increased by a clear glass or translucent screen which along with another planter serves as a divider between family kitchen and living room."

Loan Money Costs Drop

Home Sales Lag, More Mortgage Funds Available

The general drop in the economy has brought good news to families planning to buy a new house in 1961.

While house sales are lagging, the supply of savings is growing, and the new year brought the sharpest drop in months in the cost of mortgage money.

In an exclusive mortgage survey by House & Home professional magazine of the housing industry, the editors found that both FHA and VA mortgage were subject to smaller discounts by lenders, bringing a saving to home buyers of from ½ to 1 percent of the amount of the mortgage.

Prime reason for the drop was the gain in deposits in mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations (almost $10 billion) and a flood of pension fund money into the mortgage market, said the magazine.

More VA Loans

At the same time the slow down in housing sales has cut the demand for such funds, bringing a downward pressure on interest rates and discounts.

One result of the improvement has been an increase in the number of builders offering Veterans Administration insured loans. High discounts have kept builders out of the GI market recently, but they are now getting small enough to encourage some builders to absorb the cost in order to offer better terms to their buyers.

The survey noted that there were nine million World War II veterans and 5 million Korean vets eligible to buy homes under the VA program.

Columnist Forgets That Honorary Park

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Columnist R. G. Miller, who writes about Oklahoma's scenic spots, admits he had a red face recently.

He received a letter asking where Recognition Monument and Park was located. Not recalling it, he called on the public to furnish the answer.

The word came quickly. It is a southeastern Oklahoma monument to men who have boosted that scenic region.

And one of the men honored is R. G. Miller.

Here's the Answer

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: A few years ago we had a textured vinyl fabric installed on the walls of one of our rooms. The fabric is still in good condition, but we have decided that we would like a change of color. Can this be painted? And if so, is there anything we should know about handling the job?

ANSWER: Yes, vinyl fabric cloth Textured vinyl fabric, can wall covering can be painted. The most important thing is to remove all dirt and stains before beginning to paint. Ordinary surface dirt and most spots can be washed off with a detergent. When you run into a spot that will not wash off, use an odorless paint thinner on a clean cloth and rub vigorously. If the spot still does not come off, substitute a bristle brush for the hand brush. Textured vinyl fabric can take this sort of treatment without damage. When the wall covering is completely dry, apply a coat of oil-type primer-sealer. When the primer sealer is dry, put on the final coat. There are many types of quality paint that will be satisfactory, but the kind most generally recommended by paint experts is an alkylid flat paint or enamel.

Touch of Orient Popular in Plants

Living plants such as the Croton, the broad leaved Dffenbachia and the pink blossomed Shrimp plant can help achieve a touch of the orient currently so popular in interior decor. They are best kept in porous clay pots which guard against excessive heat and provide the constant moisture condition essential to the health of all potted plants.

Muted, Dusty Paint Tones Set Style

May be Used Without Changing Room Furnishings

According to home fashion experts, colors will bite the dust a bit in 1961.

Muted, dusty tones are the predicted style leaders for the year, with the rich, regal colors which were introduced last year running a close second. Decorating authorities also forecast a continued demand for the popular neutrals, particularly the creams and beiges since these colors are most complementary to both the dusty and regal hues.

The mauves, violets and deeper purples will maintain their present popularity. However, they are due to get strong competition from the blue family — with special emphasis on the muted and medium blues. Soft aqua and turquoise, which blend so beautifully with the purple hues, will be seen on the home front, but many green hues will be discarded in favor of the new blues.

Multi-Color Treatment

Inspired by the paint industry's multi-color coatings which were introduced a few years ago, color schemes will be given a many-colored treatment. This means the finale for the monochromatic or one-color decor. Of course, the change of a monochromatic decor to the more fashionable multi-colored look simply means a bit of paint and brush work on the walls, plus a scattering of colorful pillows. This will achieve the desired results without the changing of any other furnishings.

The parade of paint colors will continue its practically unending march. The predicted fashion leaders will be available in many varieties, and can also be custom-mixed according to desired requirements. While homeowners wish their rooms to look fashionable, they should also keep in mind that the wall colors must flatter the size and shape of the individual rooms as well as the furnishings.

Deep Tones

Regardless of how vague a deep shade is, it will not do justice to a small room which needs the space-giving effect of a pale wall color.

This does not mean that wall colors will be restricted to light hues. The deeper tones will be ideal for large rooms and for use as attention getters or focal points. One wall painted a deep shade — dusty rose, for example — will highlight the remaining walls painted a pale color, such as cream or soft gray, and give greater interest to the entire room. Deep tones can also be used effectively in long, narrow rooms. By painting the narrow end walls a darker color than the two side walls, the room will look much squarer in shape.

The deep tones can also be used on woodwork to complement walls of a lighter color. However, this should be done with caution. Contrasting woodwork is only attractive when the room is fairly large in size or when the woodwork is especially decorative. Soft dusty shades are ideal for high ceilings, for the muted color will cause soft light reflection and, in addition, give the ceiling a lower appearance.

Use Low Evergreens Around Foundations

BY GEORGE E. CREED Landscape Architect

Evergreens, particularly the slow growing varieties, are justifiably popular for use in foundation planting.

This is so because they do not quickly outgrow their locations, and may be kept under control by minimum shearing. For example, there are very desirable evergreens that reach mature heights of 10 to 12 feet that may be held to 4 or 5 feet with only annual shearing.

Of the broadleaf sorts, the evergreen azaleas and rhododendrons have many unusual qualities. They have excellent foliage and from the many varieties of each that are available you can take your choice of an unbelievable range of flower colors. By careful selection you can also have a considerable succession of bloom. One rhododendron to avoid is the Rosebay. This one grows very large and, while its flowers are magnificent, its leaves are too large for foundation planting. Other flowering evergreens of great value are the Pierises, Mountain Laurel and Drooping Leucothoe.

Year-Round Foliage

The broadleaf group also includes the many varieties of Japanese hollies. These evergreens have interesting, rich, green foliage the year-round. The Japanese hollies produce no flowers of significance, but are used mainly for their foliage. They range in height from a foot-and-a-half to 10 feet. The taller varieties are easily kept under control by annual shearing.

Among the needle type plants, the yews, because of their fine foliage and relatively slow growth, are probably most popular for foundation planting. Another advantage in using yews is that they come in all sorts of shapes and reach varying sizes. They are also easily controlled by annual or semi-annual shearing.

To be avoided in foundation plantings are most pines, spruces and certain tall growing arborescences. These are often mistakenly planted close to a house. The result is that in a short time they must be removed.

The planting in the accompanying illustration is composed of very fine broadleaf and needle type evergreens. Besides providing green foliage all year round, it furnishes considerable color in

Here's How To Construct Yard Screen

Privacy and decorative effect are combined in lattice screening for the yard, without reducing air circulation.

The screening may be placed as a fence or as smaller lawn dividers. Individual spans between supporting posts should not be longer than 8 feet.

The posts can be 4 by 4-inch lumber, 8 feet long, 2 feet of which are set in concrete. If the posts are tamped into the ground without concrete, the below-surface length should be 3 feet. Roof the tops of the posts, with a 1/2-inch 45 degree bevel, and round the sharp edges with a rasp.

Use 1 by 2-inch lumber to frame the screen. Nail the vertical 1 by 2-inch frame members to the posts with 12-penny finishing nails. The horizontal 1 by 2-inch frame members are nailed to the vertical ones and toenailed to the posts with 10-penny finishing nails.

Use finished lath for the lattice work, or with a bandsaw re-saw 1 by 2-inch stock to produce the lath. The ends of each lattice piece are cut at a 45 degree angle and are set between the framing members. Nail the lattice to the framing members with 6-Penny finishing nails. Space the lattice members 3/4 inches apart.

The lower end of the lattice screen is left open so rain will drain out; but the top is capped with 1 by 4-inch lumber, nailed to the frame.

Put a panel of shade aqua or shade green glass blocks over the kitchen sink or counter and you'll have plenty of soft, glare-free natural light with all the privacy of solid wall construction.

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Perhaps the only monument in the nation where two presidents take back seats to an obscure citizen marks the grave of Robert W. Smith.

Smith died in 1957 in a rest home. His will directed that about $15,000 of his estate be used to erect a monument to his memory in the style of some presidential markers.

Those who knew him say he lived frugally for years with the idea of the monument in mind. On one side of it is a bust of President McKinley; on the other, President Garfield. Smith graces the front.

Underground Mining Day Ends; Rising Costs Force Open Pit Types

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

ISHPEMING — "Nobody likes to work in a mine. You feel like a pig when you go down and you look like a pig when you come up." This graphic statement was made by a Wisconsin iron miner who added that the prime topic of conversation among his co-workers is the dream of getting out of the mines forever.

Present economics of underground mining seem to suggest that perhaps the dream could come true. Many mines have closed. Thousands of miners have been thrown out of work in recent years because of rising costs.

Many believe that the day of underground mining has gone.

"It costs too much," said an engineer. "Those mines go as deep down as a mile, and then they have to pump out a mile in other directions. The national clock mine's got a cost of $2.97 per hour, the St. Lawrence Seaway has created some terrible competition for us, and the taxes in the mines are entirely too high."

On his first point there is much to be said. The trend among mining communities is to turn to open pit mining which goes to a depth of perhaps 300 feet. The low grade ore obtained are crushed and concentrated into a purer grade of iron, and then they are pelleted for easy handling and shipping. The costs of open pit mining are much lower than those of underground mining.

The wages of the hard-rock miner at $2.97 per hour seems high but he is paid for the relative dangers of his job, and for the ever-present evil of silicosis which afflicts many of his kindred. Not many men are willing to play with their lives. The wages are earned by great personal risk. For example, a total of 2,600 working days were lost on the Gogebic range last year because of accidents to 1,434 men.

Starting Pay Lower

Further, all miners do not earn that wage. The starting salary is $1.40 per hour and the work is in the underground muck and slime and darkness. Also, frequent layoffs and the instability of the market has made mining a poor job indeed. At one mine in Michigan miners worked only four days each week. Last year, these work hours were cut to only 12 days a month. At such working hours the average iron miner was paid only $48.00 per week.

Oh, the "high taxes" paid by the mine operators there is some disagreement. The Peterson mine in Bessemer is carried on the tax rolls as $750,000 personal property which it averages is "100 per cent market value." Yet nine years ago the federal government spent $2 million on the development of the mine. Should it not be evaluated at $2,750,000?

Mining companies are fully tax-wise and complain over taxes on a ton of iron ore which jumped from 38.7 cents in 1941 to 93.8 cents in 1957.

Take Full Advantage

But the great corporations, perhaps with justice, take full advantage of tax situations.

For example, one Michigan mining corporation sent a 57-ton flywheel and shaft assembly to Allis-Chalmers in Milwaukee for repair. The corporation requested an "around the clock" repair job which entailed a considerable expense. The alleged purpose for the speedy repair was to keep the mine operative. But a week after the repair job the mine closed down indefinitely, which means perhaps forever.

The costly repair job was a legitimate tax dodge, the corporation knew it was soon to close. And the cost of the "around the clock" repair job will obviously be deductible as an operating cost.

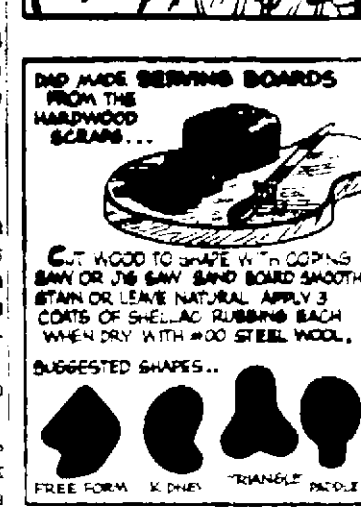

The engineer's point on competition bears some weight. The traffic on the St. Lawrence Seaway has brought new and incredible competition. Steel and iron ore comes from such producing regions as Labrador, Quebec, Venezuela, Brazil, Europe and Africa—at lower costs. Recently, an underground crew was detailed to lay rail tracks in a Wisconsin mine. They were horrified to see that the steel tracks had been made in Venezuela. Other mine operators buy and use steel made in foreign countries from ore mined in foreign countries.

Enough Ore Left

Nature has been kind to the land in the Lake Superior region. The amounts of iron ore laid down in the ranges of Menominee, Gogebic and Marquette is sufficient to last for 100 years ahead. Yet the underground mines in these states are closing. Some are being replaced by taconite plants which concentrate ore and render it into a high grade of pellet-sized iron.

Some bold predictors estimate that the multi-million plant at Randville, Mich. will be supplemented by two or possibly even three additional taconite plants. The present plant employs 190.

But it seems to appear that the day of underground mining has passed in Dickinson County, Mich. a total of 38 mines opened and operated for periods ranging from one year to more than 50 years. They gave the impetus for a beginning to such cities as Iron Mountain started in 1870 because of iron mines. But they closed, and each closed

Health Offices Training Lack Told to Senate

MADISON (AP)—Few of Wisconsin's 1,728 local public health officers are physicians or are otherwise connected with the medical field, the Senate Public Welfare Committee was told Wednesday.

Most are farmers, housewives, barbers, carpenters or cooks who, said Sen. A. Monr Greer, Bay View, are health officers.

John and others appeared at a Senate Committee hearing to ask any of a bill to reform Wisconsin's Public Health Law.

Dr. Carl N. Neupert, state health officer, pointed out that Wisconsin's basic local public health law was written 122 years ago.

Neupert said the state simply can not keep contact with the over 1,700 local officers. Many of them don't want the responsibility that goes with the position or don't want to offend their neighbors by enforcing the law, he said.

The proposed reform bill would require all counties to have health supervisors to replace the health officers. The supervisors also would act in cities and villages which do not have a health officer.

Main opposition to the bill came from A. J. Tietjen of the Wisconsin County Boards Association. He objected to the requirement that all counties have health departments.

Support for the measure came from representatives of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, State Federation of Women's Clubs, Wisconsin Welfare Council, ing dealt a fierce blow to the communities.

And now there are some openings of taconite mills which handle well the low grade surface ores found in many regions on these ranges.

New Mining Phase

A notable example of what appears to be a new phase of mining is that of the Humboldt mine 12 miles west of Ishpeming. Underground mines were here as early as 1854. From them came 100,000 tons of direct shipment ores when were rich enough to require no processing.

In 1920 the high grade ores ran out. The mines were closed and abandoned. Hundreds of people here and unemployed.

Today the mines of the Humboldt system have been reopened by their owners, The Ford Motor Co. and the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. It is now operated not as an underground mine but as an open pit operation.

It takes and concentrates then pellets the low grade Jasper ore which once was considered worthless. The high cost of treating and concentrating the Jasper necessitates using a low cost type of mining. The open pit, with its great power shovels can quickly uncover the overburden—the soil and material above the ore—and bring the ore to a point of high production.

The Jasper formerly unmarketable with 33 per cent iron content is now concentrated to approximately 62 per cent iron in usable form. Today, seven years after its establishment, the Humboldt pellet plant has a capacity of 650,000 tons of concentrate per year.

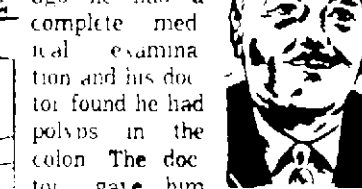

It is an eloquent illustration of what lies ahead for the depressed areas of Wisconsin and Michigan.

To Your Good Health

Neglected Polyps in Colon Tend to Become Cancerous

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please write something to persuade my husband that he seriously needs medical attention? A year ago he had a complete medical examination and his doctor found he had polyps in the colon. The doctor gave him temporary medication to control the bleeding and made some tests to be sent away for laboratory analysis. My husband was supposed to return in two weeks but didn't. He maintains that as long as the medication is helping him, he doesn't need to go back to the doctor. — Mrs. J. D. M.

Molner

The sooner he goes back the more chance he has of getting off easy.

Dear Sir: Could you give me about a remedy to cure rash on the skin caused by using delergents in the laundry?—A. K. B.

Stopping contact with the detergent is essential. Use of bland lotions should help until the rash then subsides. In severe cases ointments containing steroid hormones may be required. These latter are prescription drugs.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain how the nerves called the saddle block nerves. My doctor suggested this so I could see my baby born but I am a little nervous about side effects. — Mrs. H. K.

It is a rather loosely used term, the basic idea being that an anesthetic is used to block the nerves of the lower part of the body.

It is known by now that some points so located have a tendency to become cancerous. Hence the smart thing is to have them removed before that happens. It is not a pleasant procedure but the satisfaction in the type of anesthetic used is a great deal.

It is a so-called spinal anesthetic. It is given very low in the spinal canal.

canal this type permits a lower level of anesthesia.

Duration of the effect depends on the type of anesthetic material used. It may last an hour, or as long as three or four hours.

There are no side effects, and it does not affect the baby. Since your doctor has recommended it for you, take his advice without further concern.

Artery Split
Note to Mrs. G. A.: An aneurysm is a dilation in an artery at one point, and the term "dissecting aneurysm" in the aorta (or large artery from the heart) signifies that the various layers of the artery were slowly split, one after another. Hardening of the arteries is the usual cause of this. As a rule there are symptoms—a feeling of tightness or pain after which X-rays can show what is happening. Sometimes it is even possible to feel such an aneurysm as a mass it occurs in an artery in the abdomen.

If discovered early it can be repaired by various methods depending on location and type. It can however develop rather rapidly and since your husband had no symptoms directing attention to this, you have no cause for remorse at not having had treatment.
